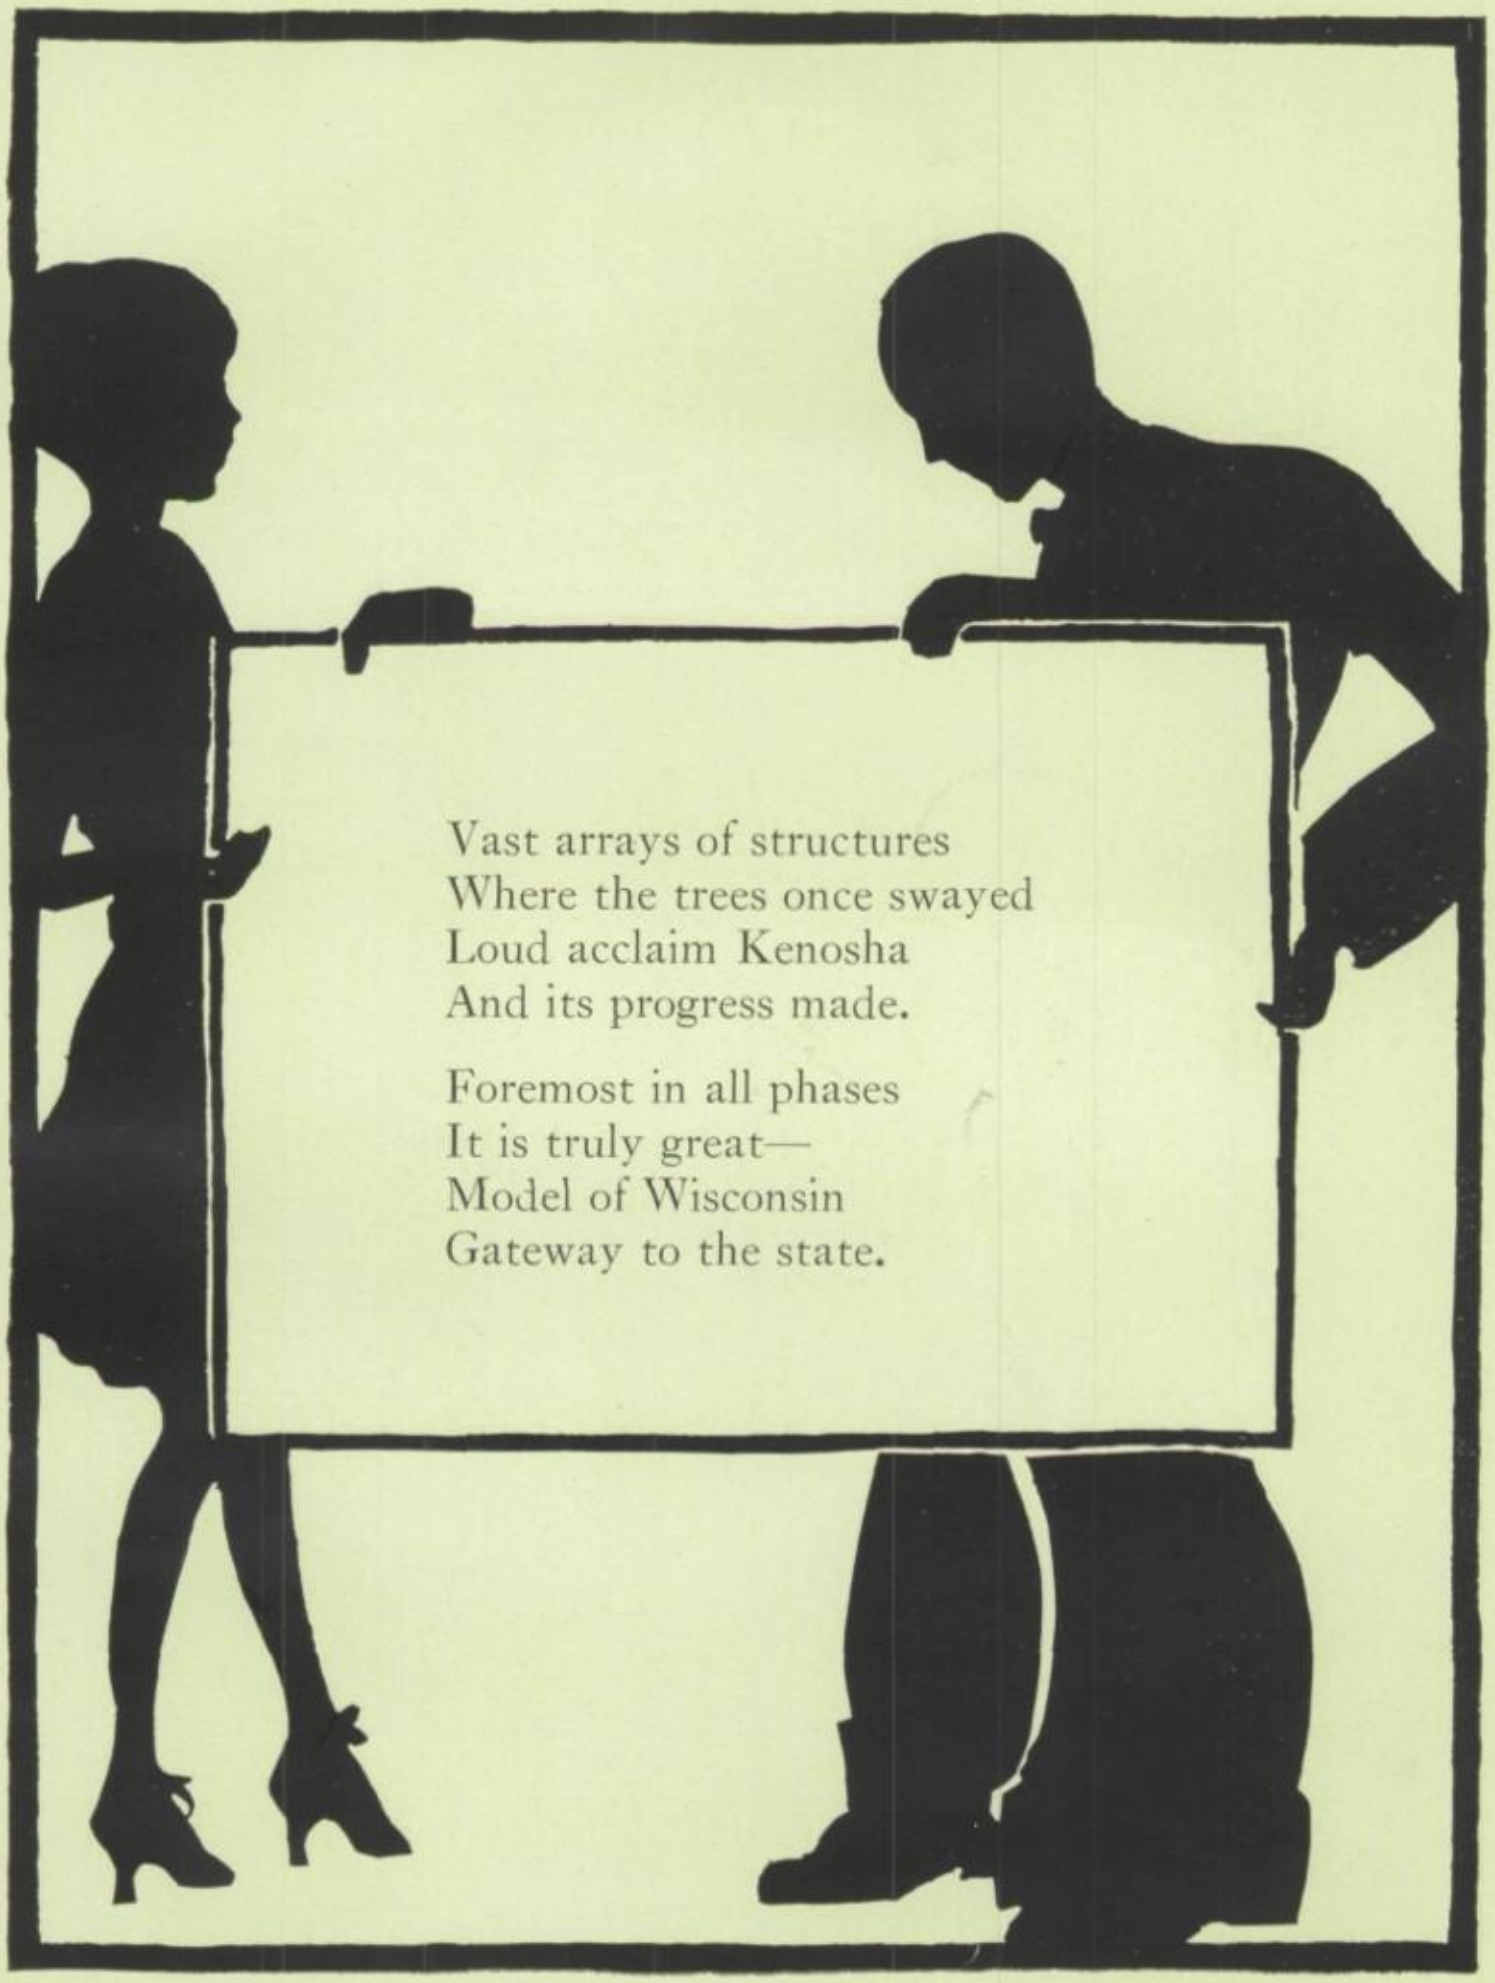
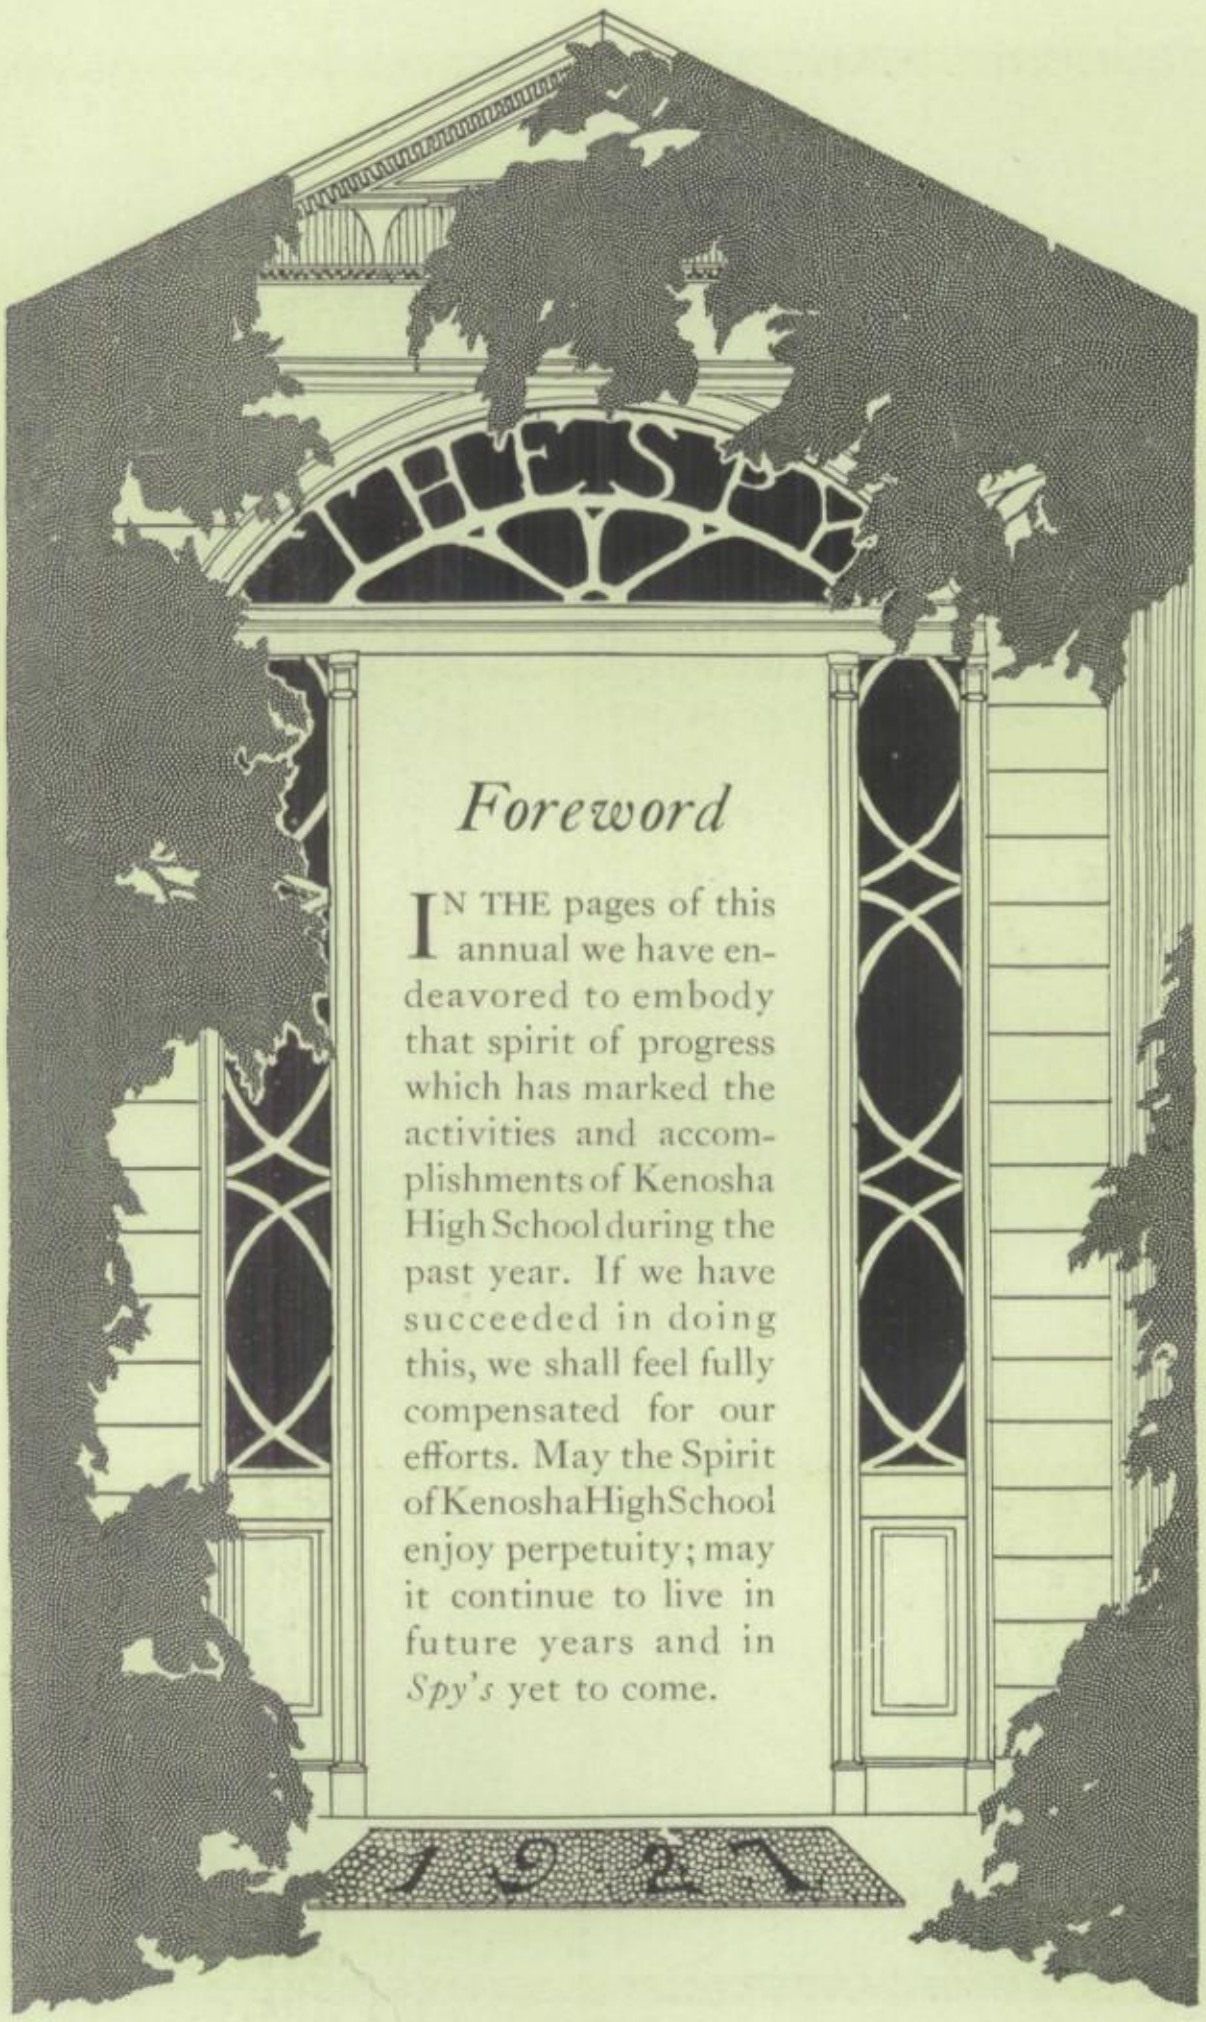
Dedication

TO THE spirit of progress which has made Kenosha a Better City, and has made our high school a Better School, we, the students of the Kenosha High School, dedicate this, the 1927 Spy annual.



Vast arrays of structures
Where the trees once swayed
Loud acclaim Kenosha
And its progress made.

Foremost in all phases
It is truly great—
Model of Wisconsin
Gateway to the state.



Foreword

IN THE pages of this annual we have endeavored to embody that spirit of progress which has marked the activities and accomplishments of Kenosha High School during the past year. If we have succeeded in doing this, we shall feel fully compensated for our efforts. May the Spirit of Kenosha High School enjoy perpetuity; may it continue to live in future years and in Spy's yet to come.

The Educational System in Kenosha

THE Senior High School stands today as the fitting climax of a proud history that dates back to the organization in Kenosha of the first free public school west of the Alleghanies, and as a monument to the vision of Kenosha's pioneer educational missionary—Colonel Frank.

The new building is built to house 1500 students with an overload capacity of 1800 and is of fireproof construction throughout, built of Indiana limestone, beautifully decorated, and covers an entire block.

COMMERCE

Every need is met, every convenience provided for, but no waste or extravagance is found anywhere. Those who have seen schools the country over, pronounce it unsurpassed.

The Kenosha schools are organized on the 6—3—3 plan, with special schools for the sub-normal, the deaf, the physically handicapped, those with defective speech, and special work is provided for shut-ins.

The new building houses the three grades of the Senior High School, with certain of its facilities available temporarily for the Central Junior High School which is located on the adjacent block.

Period 1

MATHEMATICS—SCIENCE

On the first floor are located the Commercial Department, which affords practical training for those students who, in addition to a general secondary education, seek to equip themselves for self support in the industrial life of the community.

The Department of Public Speaking has its home on this floor, together with the general offices, the health unit with nurse's quarters and rest room, and baths and dressing rooms for both boys and girls.

A beautiful and well equipped library, with a full-time, trained librarian, situated between two study halls, provides facilities for study and research. Specially equipped rooms offer work in all phases of art and architecture—the former a newly developed and rapidly expanding department.

Those whose tastes lead to musical activities find provision for varied phases of their work in the large room, divisible by folding doors, on the third floor, where center the glee clubs, the various classes in music, the orchestra and the newly organized and still developing band.

FOREIGN LANGUAGES

On the third floor are found the two suites of laboratories for the physics, chemistry and biology with a specially equipped recitation room for each group and a conservatory on the roof where plants are grown and preserved for the work of the biology department.

The home-room plan for study groups prevails in addition to the three general study halls.

Recitation periods are forty-five minutes in length, and the day is divided into eight periods, the fifth of which is given up to the various student activities which formerly found themselves seriously handicapped in their efforts to carry on after school hours.

A sane and liberal discipline is exercised through the help of the Student Council, which assumes responsibility for hall control and general activities, thus affording training in government and self control.

The physical welfare of students is maintained by the use of two gymnasiums and a pool. Each student is required to schedule two periods per week, one of which may be in the pool where careful instruction is given in swimming and in life-saving exercises. Volunteer teams represent the school in all forms of athletics, and the generous collection of trophies won attests the success of their efforts.

The Manual Training and Domestic Arts Departments are provided for in the Junior High School building situated on the adjacent block.

The beautiful auditorium, with a capacity of 1500 and a fully equipped stage, serves as high school assembly, a medium for school presentations and a center of the civic life of the city which finds here a gathering place for lectures, concerts and other activities.

The long years of waiting and hoping have found their fulfillment in this realization of dreams, of which the Kenosha High School and Kenosha citizens are justly proud.

The Spirit of Kenosha High School

IN THIS brief retrospect of Kenosha High School during the past fifteen years, one is prompted to center his thoughts primarily about the spirit of the school. One's thoughts naturally run back to the time when three hundred students met together in a building where numerous rooms were occupied by elementary classes and where, though the mingling of a variety of ages and statures, physically and mentally, furnished opportunity for the growth of sympathy and understanding, yet the conditions were not best suited to the development of high school spirit and high school interests. But numbers soon increased to the point where the building was devoted solely to high school classes and an institutional consciousness soon began to manifest itself in loyalties to classes and organizations, and finally in an increasing devotion to general school concerns and interests. Athletic competition, debating and declamatory contests began to stir school spirit; winning teams won more and more enthusiastic support. Larger groups were now going away to school, more alumni were returning to visit and boost for the school. And old K. H. S. was beginning to find itself on the map.

The Spy was reborn. Both issue and annual were heartily supported by the school and the community. Orchestra and glee clubs came into being. Public speaking was introduced into the curriculum and not only gave the students training in the art of oral expression, but created opportunity for voicing school spirit and sentiments of school loyalty.

The school continued to grow in numbers, the number of teachers increased, new subjects were introduced into the curriculum, standards of work were bettered, greater recognition was vouchsafed by schools in neighboring cities, better reports came back from those who went away to colleges. And pride in the school began to assert itself.

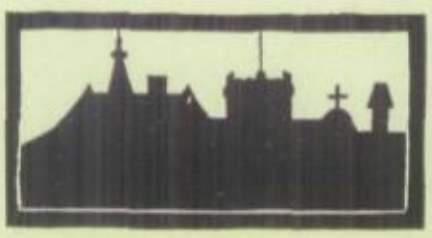
Finally, the numbers became so great that we were treading on each others toes in the effort to get about when the whole school was passing. It became necessary to increase the facilities or decrease the numbers and out of this dilemma grew the Junior High School. The poor downtrodden, unprivileged freshmen were transferred from the High School, where they were the most ignoble and least respected members of the group, to a new realm where they became the lords of creation.

For a time there was relief and room to live and move and have our being. But soon the numbers had increased again to where relief must again be had, and a solution was found in the establishment of annexes, one after another, until there were three.

By this time, the need for a new high school building had become so insistent that plans were undertaken to supply the need. School officials, Board of Education, city officials, and the fathers and mothers of the community became gradually possessed of the splendid idea that Kenosha should have a new high school plant; that it should be so planned that it could be made to take care of the needs of the school for years to come, and that it should be one of the best built and finest plants that could be built.



High School spirit and pride and enthusiasm had taken possession of the whole city. Nothing should be too good in the building of the temple that was to house that splendid institution, the old K. H. S., first free public high school in the west, whose traditions had developed under the highest ideals and with the continuous hearty support of a loyal student body, a devoted corps of teachers, and a thoroughly sympathetic and willing group of officials and citizens.

The consummation is now with us. We are still Kenosha High School, the same old K. H. S., but how changed and how grown and how splendid. The same ideals, the same spirit of loyalty and cooperation, the same pride, the same determination to keep the old traditions and ideals still possess us all, whether students or teachers or officials or parents. It is this spirit that has inspired us all, that has helped us to pull together, to build one of the finest schools it is possible in our present knowledge to build. Let us hope and strive that this spirit which has lived so long and motivated us so splendidly may be kept alive and vigorous as long as it is in our hands to perpetuate it and hand it on to men and women of generations not yet born to nourish the ideals and standards of educational growth and lay the foundations that will assure the continuance of a fine citizenship and the permanence of the ever better city.

The Spy Annual

IN THE fall of 1926 the Sixth National All-American Contest for annuals was held at the University of Wisconsin under the direction of the Central Interscholastic Press Association. In this contest the 1926 Spy was not only rated as an All-American annual but was also classed as one of the All-American leaders of which there were only nine from secondary schools throughout the country. All-American honor ratings are given only to books which have made the most of their opportunities for production. The fact that books from every section of the United States were entered in the contest fully demonstrates the honors received by the Spy and the merits on which it received them.

Besides winning an All-American rating, the Spy annual was given recognition in the Art Crafts Guild Contest held at Chicago, where it won the silver cup awarded for the greatest improvement over the annual of the preceding year. This cup is now in the trophy case of Kenosha High School.

This, the 1927 Spy, is planned much along the same lines as last year's book. The theme is a continuance of and an enlargement upon the theme begun in the 1926 annual. The Better City idea is used throughout the book and forms the theme for the feature section. The art work and illustrating was done entirely by students in the art classes of our school. Many of the drawings were made from third floor windows of the school and portray familiar skylines and landmarks.

We have attempted, both by word and picture, to incorporate into the 1927 Spy something of the spirit of progress that has characterized Kenosha and the Kenosha High School. We hope that this spirit has had an effect upon us in the production of our Annual and that we have been at least partially successful in our attempt to make this a bigger and a better Spy than Kenosha High School has ever had.

The Spanish Play

One of the outstanding indications of the progress of Kenosha High School was the Spanish play, Los Pantalones, given last December. That a play given entirely in a foreign language was received with spirited applause speaks well not only for our Foreign Language Department, but also for the taste and appreciation of the students.

Those who took part in the play are as follows: Donald Heide, Ellen Tambellini, Margaret Clausen, Nellie Pietrangeli, William Arlicki, Wilma Menzel, Stanley Severance, Peter Verkon, Frances Nelson, Hilda Horn, Lydia Moru, Marjorie Butcher, Gladys Erickson.

The play was under the supervision of Mrs. Hall, Miss Graybill, and Miss McMurtry.

Booster Club

THE Booster Club was organized in 1925. The membership has grown yearly until now the Booster Club has a larger membership than any other club in Kenosha High School. The Booster Club aims to create a greater interest in all activities among the pupils of high school. The Boosters practice all the songs and yells, and form an important part in the rooting at the games. The officers of the Booster Club are:

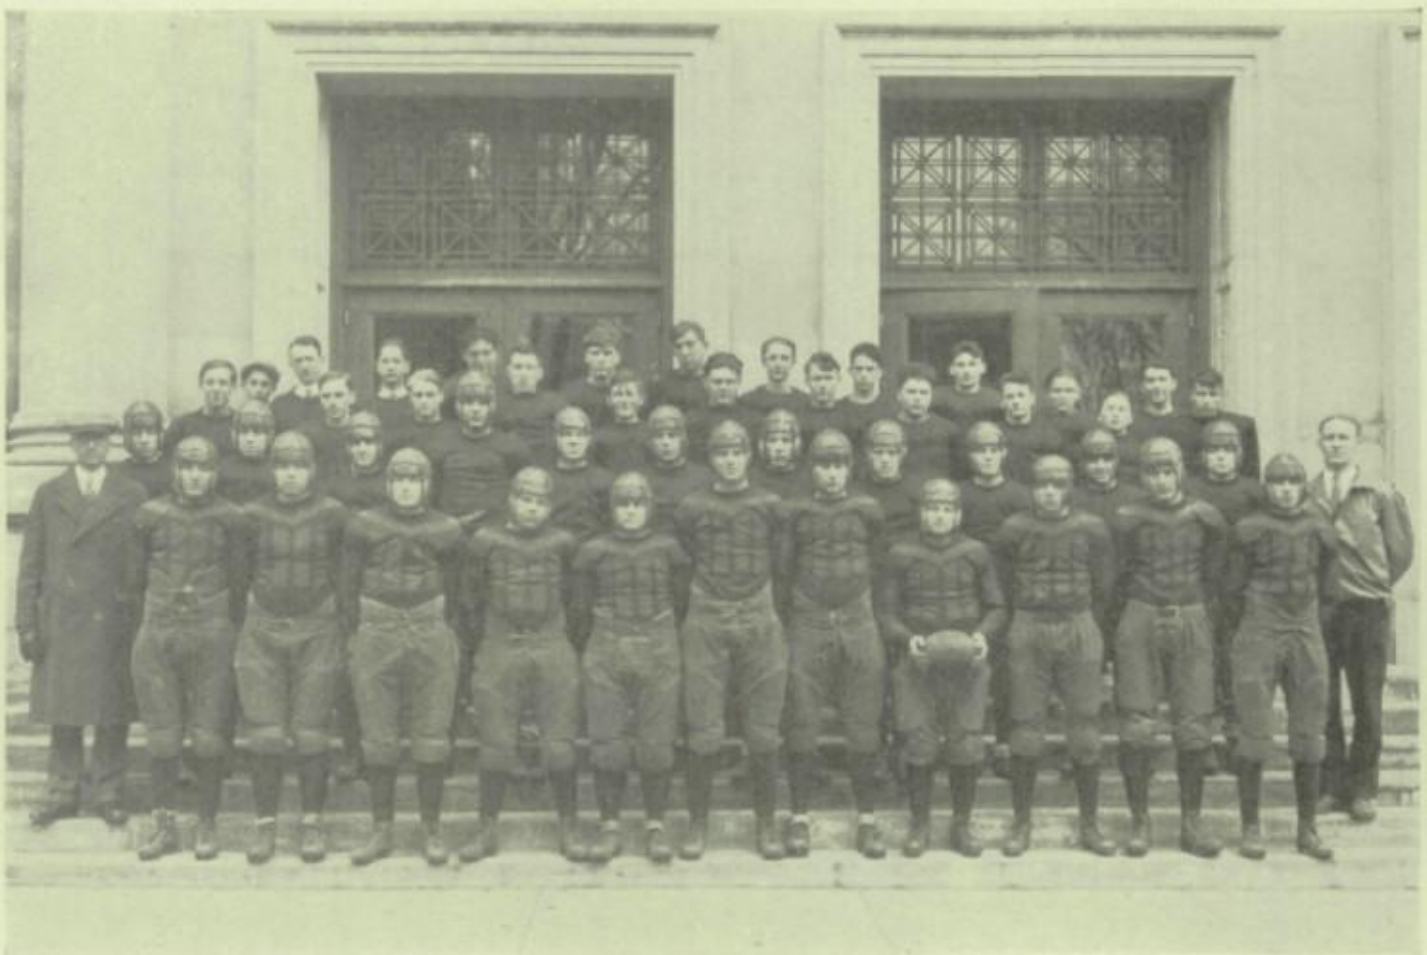
ATHLETICS

Louis "Dane" Jensen, Kenosha High School's all-around athlete, who captains our teams in three major sports — football, basketball, and track.



Review of the 1926 Football Season

THE team inaugurated the 1926 football season in an auspicious manner by vanquishing Milwaukee North Division, a worthy opponent, 9 to 0. Jensen scored the lone touchdown, and Pacetti secured the extra point by kicking goal. A fumble behind North Division's goal line resulted in a safety worth two points.

Launching a highly effective aerial attack, West Division of Milwaukee defeated Kenosha 19 to 13 in our second home game. Jensen assumed the star role by returning a kick-off 95 yards through the entire West Division team. Jensen also made the other touchdown on a 30 yard run. Pacetti kicked goal for the extra point. Doehring's uncanny forward passing was the bright spot of Milwaukee's attack.

Kenosha regained a winning stride, subduing Madison East in a convincing manner, 20 to 0. This was our first Big Six Conference game. Pacetti, Desmonie, and Vlachina crossed the goal line for touchdowns, with Pacetti adding two more points with kicks after touchdowns.

History repeated itself when Kenosha and Janesville fought to a scoreless tie. Last year's game with Janesville was also a tie, the score being 14 to 14.

In the first out of town game Kenosha out-played Beloit but failed to show the punch when touchdowns seemed almost certain. The game was lost 14 to 7. Pacetti accounted for Kenosha's points. Fate frowned on Errol Evans, and he was removed from the game in the second quarter with a broken collar-bone.

The second out of town game also proved disastrous to the team. The boys journeyed to the capital only to take a 13 to 7 defeat at the hands of Madison Central. In this game also Pacetti accounted for Kenosha's points.

The traditional battle with Racine was called off in respect to the memory of Thor Paulsen, former R. H. S. football captain, who died on the eve of the game.

In a post-season game on Thanksgiving Day Kenosha invaded La-Crosse but lost 19 to 7 on a snow and ice crusted field. In this game Jensen intercepted a pass and returned it 90 yards for a touchdown. Pacetti kicked goal.

On October 16, an open date, the team attended the Northwestern-Indiana game at Evanston as a guest of the High School Athletic Association.

The Players

To Captain Johnny Dicks, sturdy half-back, Kenosha High is greatly indebted for his brilliant playing and excellent leadership. Captain Dicks had the knack of instilling fight into his men. He was known for his clean sportsmanship and figured prominently in Big Six circles as a splendid defensive man. Johnny was awarded the American Legion Trophy.

Captain-Elect Louis Jensen, one of the most versatile athletes in the conference, was noted for his spectacular open-field running. Injuries kept "Dane" out much of the season, but when able to play, he proved himself a valuable asset to the team. That his teammates honored him with the captaincy of the 1927 team is a tribute to his leadership qualities and playing ability.

Nello Pacetti, triple-threat full-back, was our most consistent ground-gainer and one of our best defensive men. Calm, deliberate, and modest, an ideal type of athlete, he could be depended upon to do his best in every game. In all probability Nello will be one of the select few that will possess nine of the coveted K's.

Charles "Chuck" Jaskwhich, just a sophomore, proved that he was of first-team caliber by assuming the position of quarter-back vacated by Evans. "Chuck" has two more promising years of athletic competition. He not only takes active part in football, but also participates in basketball and track.

Errol "Brownie" Evans began the season as regular quarterback, but he was forced out in the West Division game with a broken collarbone. Resuming play one month later, he met with the same unfortunate injury. Graduation bars "Brownie" from next year's team. Besides being a football man Evans is an experienced track man, running both low and high hurdles.

William "Bill" Funck played his third year at left end. Bill's experience and size greatly fortified the left side of the line throughout the season. Cool-headed, square, and capable, he served as a steadying influence to the team.

Lewis Green, all conference tackle for two seasons, was without a doubt the best punter in the conference. Throughout the season he averaged forty-five yards on his punts. He could be depended upon, also, to carry and pass the ball when called upon.

Alex Pohizek, 190 pounds of fight, charged at the opposing team from the position of left-guard. He was an aggressive player, and with last year's experience he was one of the outstanding players in the line. His loss to next year's team will be keenly felt.

Clayton "Fat" Biddle held his place at the center of the line. Formerly a guard, he was developed into a reliable center by Coach McCaw when that position became vacant.

Tony Bredek entered Kenosha High from Beloit in the fall of 1926. His consistent defensive work in all the games as right guard made him a valuable man in the line. Tony looms as a mainstay for next year's line.

August "Goodie" Bon, formidable right tackle, was a bulwark of strength in the right side of the line. This was Bon's first year of regular competition, but he performed in a manner that distinguished him as a player of marked ability. Bon is one of this year's graduates.

Joe Vlachina, playing his last year, showed unusual ability in executing all the requirements of a wing man. His ability to snare long passes made him a consistent yardage-gainer.

Review of 1926-27 Basketball Season

AFTER the basketball togs had been tucked away in mothballs, Kenosha was able to look back over the school's most successful basketball season. Kenosha had not only shared the Big Six Conference title with Madison Central, but had won the Milwaukee District Championship and had finished third in the state championship. The state champion, Eau Claire, was the only team that defeated Kenosha at the state tournament.

As an indication of Kenosha's strength, three men, Captain Jensen, Beaupre, and Pacetti, were placed on the All-District Team. In addition Beaupre was placed on the Second All-State Team, and Shipley received wonderful recognition.

Kenosha's brilliant season may be partly attributed to its splendid basketball facilities in the new gym; its success was largely due to McCaw's splendid coaching. With three regulars back and Beaupre and Pacetti sharing the captaincy, Kenosha looks forward to another brilliant season.

Kenosha opened this year's basketball season on its home-court against the Carroll College Freshmen. Kenosha, showing mid-season form in this game, completely outclassed the rangy Frosh from Carroll in all departments of the game. The final score was Kenosha 20, Carroll 10.

In the last pre-conference game Kenosha overwhelmed St. Catherine's High of Racine by the decisive score of 40 to 3, its offense and defense working to perfection.

In Kenosha's first conference game the team clearly outplayed Madison Central, rated in pre-season dope as the Conference favorites. "Sis" Beaupre, high-point man in this game, began his quest for the Conference individual scoring honors.

The following week Kenosha journeyed to Janesville and after trailing at the half, defeated the Royal Blues in a hotly contested game.

Playing on its home floor, Kenosha easily disposed of Madison East by the large score of 29 to 14. Beaupre again led his team-mates in scoring honors.

The fourth conference game brought together the bitter rivals, Kenosha and Racine, at Memorial Hall, Racine. Kenosha won the game 29 to 21. George Kolar, playing his last game for Kenosha, played brilliantly.

Back on its home floor, Saturday, February 5, Kenosha outplayed Beloit, winning by the score of 22 to 14. Jensen played a great defensive game.

Playing in the Madison Central's small gym, Kenosha went down to defeat to Central 32 to 18. This made the series with Central a fifty-fifty proposition.

Kenosha had another off-night at Beloit and succumbed to Beloit by the close score of 16 to 14. This defeat put the team into a tie with Central for first place.

In the second game of its two-day trip, Kenosha defeated Madison East 20 to 16 in a close contest. Shipley proved to be the scoring ace of Kenosha's quintet.

Kenosha showed a reversal in form by trouncing the Janesville Bluebirds 22 to 12 on the local floor. Janesville was unable to penetrate Kenosha's rigid defense.

Before a huge crowd in the new High School gym, Kenosha administered a stinging defeat to its ancient rivals, Racine. Kenosha displayed a brilliant offense and defense and decisively halted Racine. The score was 28 to 11.

Kenosha, playing listless ball, humbled the West Allis five by the score of 27 to 20 in the first game of the Milwaukee District Tournament. Not being pressed hard through the entire tilt, Kenosha did not display its best basketball.

The next night Kenosha met and defeated the rangy West Bend quintet and easily showed itself to be superior, winning by the score of 21 to 11.

In the final of the Tournament Kenosha took the measure of the Waukesha team after a hard fought contest. Both teams fought to the end and played superior basketball. The scoreboard showed a final score of 21 to 15, proclaiming Kenosha the District Champion with privilege of entering the State Tournament.

In the first round of the State Championship Kenosha met New Richmond, rated as one of the five leading contenders for the state title. Kenosha defeated New Richmond by the score of 25 to 7, New Richmond scoring but a single basket.

In the second game Kenosha was paired with Platteville who had defeated Kewaunee in the first round. Platteville did not display a strong offense or defense, and Kenosha appropriated the tilt 20 to 9. Kenosha's short pass attack worked to perfection and brought many favorable comments from the sidelines.

Kenosha by virtue of its two easy wins was paired with Eau Claire in the semi-finals, but seemed to have stage fright in the over-crowded Armory and succumbed to the future state champions 28 to 14. Kenosha started well, Shipley netting two baskets soon after the starting gun; but the team failed to take advantage of its lead.

Saturday morning Kenosha met La Crosse, the loser of the other semi-final tilt with Madison Central. Undismayed by their stinging defeat of the previous night, the Reds flashed the keenest offense seen in the state competition. In this game Kenosha sought revenge for last fall's defeat in football at La Crosse. At the finish Kenosha had won a great basketball game, 29 to 11.

Saturday night Kenosha played its last game of the season and defeated Wausau 19 to 15 for third place honors. Thus Kenosha ended the most successful basketball season in the history of the school.

JENSEN

CAPTAIN LOUIS JENSEN showed a happy faculty for leaping high to get the ball as it glanced off the backboard. It was seldom that opposing players could break through his sturdy defense. His speed enabled him to advance down the court and interrupt the attack of the opposition before it could get under way. He took relatively few shots at the basket, but when he did try, his attempts were usually good for chalk on the scoreboard. His indomitable fighting spirit carried the team through to the most brilliant record any quintet has ever made for K. H. S. Jensen won a guard berth on the district team at Milwaukee. He was heralded as the fastest player of any on the sixteen teams in the state tournament at Madison.

NELLO PACETTI, towering pivot man, was indispensable on offense and defense. His skill contributed to numerous victories. His smooth and seemingly effortless floor play, coupled with his scoring proclivities at close range, made him a valuable asset to the team. Nello had a copyrighted way of getting loose for pot shots and scoring with regularity. His total for the season was 108, giving him second place on the team. Pacetti was a consistent performer at the district meet in Milwaukee and was placed at center on the All-Tournament team. He will share the honor of captaincy with Beaupre next season.

ALLAN "SIS" BEAUPRE—The playing of Beaupre was first class all season. His fast breaking dribble, accurate shooting, and the smooth and machine-like precision that he showed in all games made him a forward of undeniable class. He finished as the individual scoring champion of the Bix Six Conference with a total of 78 points in ten games and was the best free thrower with 16 free throws as his total. He likewise set the scoring pace for his teammates with 150 in 20 games. He earned a place on the All-District Tournament Team at Milwaukee and placed on the Second All-State Team at Madison. He was chosen as one of the co-captains of next year's team.

SHIPLEY

JASKWHICH

GEORGE KOLAR, forward, who was graduated in February after three years of faithful service on the first team, proved to be a bulwark of strength on defense. He also displayed an accurate eye for the basket, getting 25 points during the five games he played this season. Altho Kolar was the midget of the team, he, nevertheless, was an integral part of all plays. While he was guarding the basket, the percentage of the opponents always took a big slump.

AL SHIPLEY was the floor guard. He advanced the ball with a fast, fine dribble, and his scoring efforts enabled the team to add several games to the win side of the ledger. He could register shots in a beautiful manner from beyond the foul line. This marked Shipley's first year of basketball competition but he withstood the test like a veteran. He was cool in all games and he handled himself well all season. Shipley proved to be a formidable running mate with Captain Jensen. He will play the first half of next year's schedule but will be graduated in February.

KNUDSEN

"CHUCK" JASKWHICH, sophomore and youngest player on the team, developed into a most colorful player. He was given an opportunity to earn a place on the regular team when Kolar was graduated in February, and he did not hesitate to seize the chance to make good. Altho this was his first year of competition, he quickly adapted himself to the coaching of "Bud" McCaw. Jaskwhich was fleet afoot, a cool thinker, an accurate shot, and handled the ball with facility. He and Beaupre should make an invincible combination next season.

KNUDSEN, alternating at center and forward, was probably one of the best basket tossers ever seen on our floor. He is tall and rangy and uses these qualities to a good advantage.

PAVLIC

In SMITH, we had a small, sturdy forward. He played a fast offensive game, was a good shot, and a heady forward. He also played a good defensive game.

ERDMAN, the hard driving type, played a great offensive and defensive game at guard. He had a great ability in getting the ball from the backboard and taking it down the floor to put it in play again.

JOHN PAVLIC, a tall, lanky player, was a fast, clever guard. He was one of our best defensive substitutes. He had great ability in sinking shots directly under the basket.

DESMONIE, the only one of the reserves back next year, played a good all round game at forward. With a little more experience he should develop into a great player.

The 1927 Track Season

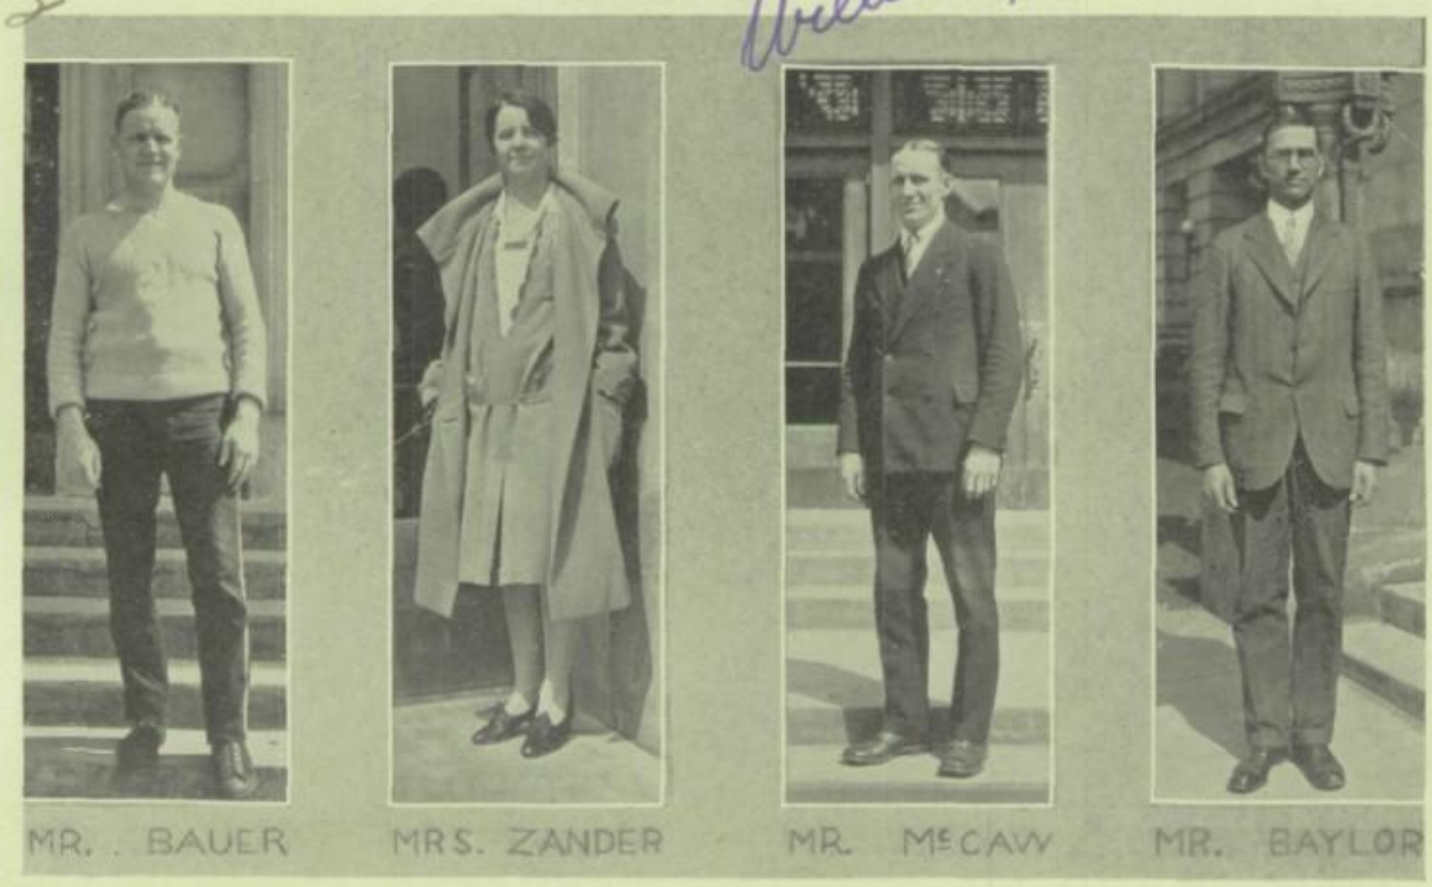
AFTER two weeks of strenuous training, Kenosha met and defeated Lake Forest Academy in a dual meet. This victory was notable, as Lake Forest was runnerup in the National Interscholastic Meet, participating in the academy division. The final score was 63 to 54 in favor of Kenosha. The three high point men were Jensen with 15 points, Erdman with 13, and Pacetti with 8.

On Saturday, April 30, Kenosha traveled to Madison to enter the Midwest Relays conducted by the University of Wisconsin. Schools from five states were entered. Jensen made a remarkable showing for Kenosha, winning the 120 yard high hurdle. Erdman won third place in the broad jump and javelin throw. Kenosha's half-mile relay team—Jensen, Pacetti, Bower, and Wickland—placed fourth.

On the following Saturday Kenosha displayed wonderful ability by winning the annual Whitewater invitational meet sponsored by Whitewater Normal. Kenosha easily walked away with this meet, capturing 53 points, while the nearest rival, Fort Atkinson, won only 21 4-5 points. Janesville, scoring heavily in the weights, won third place. Records were broken by Bower in the 220, Pacetti in the 440, Jensen in the high hurdles, Erdman in the broad jump, and Evans in the low hurdles.

As all the Big Six schools except Racine were entered in the Whitewater meet, Kenosha was a heavy favorite to win the Big Six Conference Meet at Beloit, May 14. Racine was an unknown quantity, but it proved incapable of upsetting predictions. Kenosha experienced one of its greatest athletic triumphs by scoring 66 1-3 points out of a possible 124 points. The Red thinly-clads won nine first places out of a possible fourteen. This is the second successive year in which Kenosha has triumphed over the other Big Six schools. The Kenosha men who now hold records in the Big Six are Jensen in the 100 yard dash, and high hurdles, Pacetti in the 440 yard dash, Jaskwhich in the pole vault, and Evans in the 220 yard low hurdles.

On May 21 Kenosha enters the state meet at Madison, on May 28 the meet at Stevens Point, and on June 4 several men of Kenosha's team will enter the Stagg Interscholastic Meet at Chicago.



Our Coaches

UNDER the leadership of Coach McCaw Kenosha has enjoyed a very successful year in athletics. It is due to Mac's superior coaching that Kenosha High School has been brought into the limelight of athletics. He is generally considered one of the best of Conference coaches and therefore is looked up to as the last word in athletic coaching in this state.

Since the Big Six Conference was organized two years ago, the teams of his coaching have won the football championship once, basketball once, and track once, and are now looking forward to a brilliant success in track.

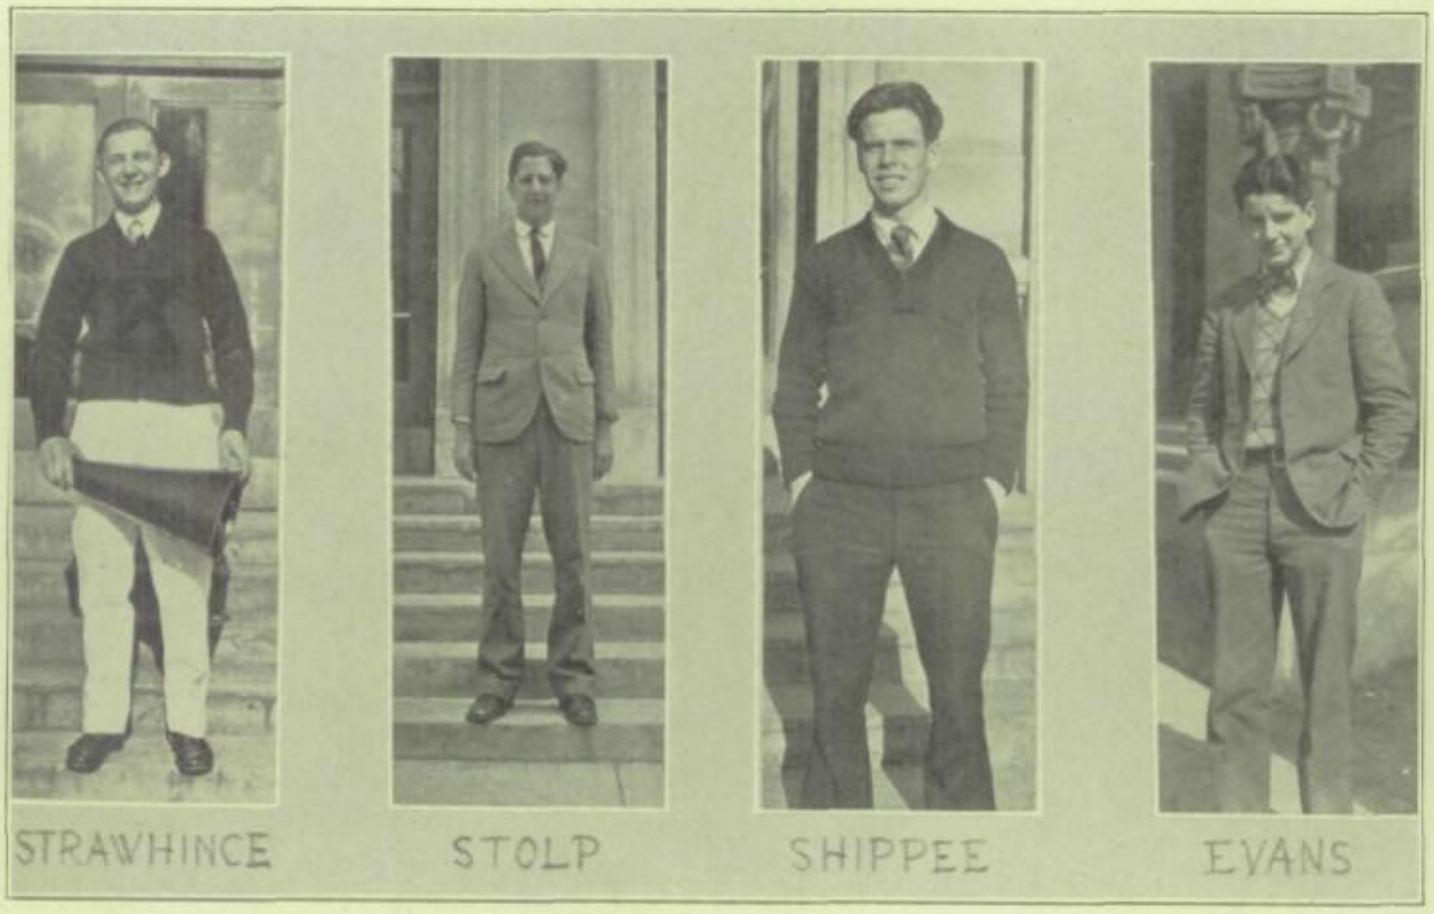
Mac is noted for his ability to put into his men the fighting spirit that has so characterized Kenosha's sportdom. Kenosha in the future looks forward to even greater success at McCaw's hands than in the past.

Since the opening of the new high school, the girls have had a chance to enjoy athletics under the leadership of Mrs. Zander. Interest is being shown by all of the girls, as clubs and organizations are being formed to enter girls in sports. Mrs. Zander's duty is to supervise swimming classes and to promote athletics, and she certainly does both well.

One of the keenest additions to the new high school's coaching staff in the last couple of years is Mr. Bauer, who is generally known to all as just "Bauer." His job is taking care of the boys' swimming classes.

Bauer is popular with the whole school and has greatly aided McCaw in the developing of his teams during the past year.

Mr. Baylor, who assists McCaw with his teams, enjoyed a most successful basketball season with his second squad. Mr. Baylor is always helping out in the athletic department and is a credit to it.



Student Managers and Cheer Leaders

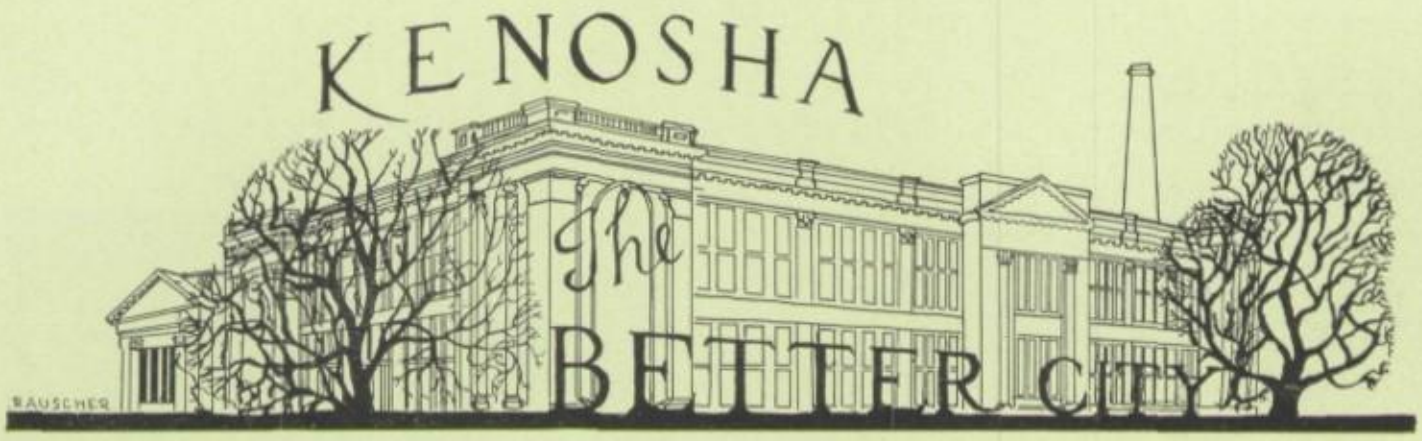
JOE Strawhince together with Joe Sweeney ably took charge of leading cheers. The two Joes, with their perfect rhythm and cooperation, brought a large response from supporters of the team. Both cheerleaders fully appreciated the support given by the student body at the games.

The trials of the student managers for the football team were assumed by Alfred Stolp and Julius Camponeschi. Much credit is justly due them for their fine work throughout the season. Both were well liked by the players and made good as managers. "Camp" was graduated with the mid-year class. Stolp leaves us in June.

Llewellyn "Todd" Shippee was chosen basketball manager of the 1926-27 team. "Todd" was popular with the team and always performed his duties in a creditable manner. He graduates with the June Class of 1927.

To "Johnny" Evans and "Bill" Arlicki fell the obligations of track managers. As there are many duties and small jobs expected from the track managers, two capable men were needed. Evans and Arlicki fulfilled the slightest wishes of the team and of Coach McCaw (and there were plenty); the boys were certainly appreciated by the team. Both are seniors and are being graduated with the class of '27.

BETTER CITIES



KENOSHA has distinguished itself in the first Better Cities Contest in Wisconsin. It is not unknown, no doubt, that Kenosha won the contest, taking seven first places out of ten awarded, a second, a third, and an eighth. Our city was first in Public Administration, City Planning, Libraries, Industry, Recreation, Health, and Social Welfare, second in Religion, third in Education, and eighth in Township and City Relations.

In the following pages, each division is taken up separately in greater detail, so that since the original reports of the judges are not widely known to the general public, readers may gain a more vivid conception of Kenosha's outstanding advantages. The report begins with a short history of Kenosha.

Kenosha County was first settled in 1830, when about fifteen families arrived during the summer. The second printing press to be set up in Wisconsin was brought to the settlement by Reverend Jason Lathrop. In 1850 the village of Southport was incorporated into the City of Kenosha, with 3,437 inhabitants. Col. Frank was the first mayor. The city has since advanced steadily to its present place of distinction.

Public Administration

Municipal government touches intimately every man, woman, and child in any community. In a real sense, therefore, the acts of such a government are of personal concern to all. Whether or not a city is a good place in which to live depends, to a large extent on how the city administration conducts the affairs of government.

In April, 1922, Kenosha as a municipality adopted the council-manager form of government and under that method has made great and lasting progress. The underlying reason for Kenosha's superiority in many fields is her having, as the department heads, trained men of known ability, individually expensive, but on the whole very economical.

Another reason is the adoption of standard modern systems of administration of a highly efficient nature. All the departments are under trained supervision; all activities are carefully planned in advance and carried out according to plan.

The municipal buildings are spacious, well-arranged, and efficiently managed. Kenosha's water is supplied by a municipally owned water works, employing the most efficient means of filtering, settling, and treatment to insure pure, safe drinking water. The pumps are adequate for the best fire protection.

The average fire loss during four years has been considerably less than $1.50 per capita. Kenosha's fire department is indeed well equipped.

The police department is well paid. A school of instruction is maintained in which patrolmen are instructed in police methods, laws and ordinances, and the conduct and manner of a police officer. There are, at the present time, two police women on the department.

In the engineering department a perfect score was made in the Better Cities' Contest, and there is little left to be desired.

The report submitted in the Better Cities' Contest on Public Administration according to the judge's report, coupled with the exhaustive and orderly presentation of exhibits, constitutes a new chapter in community analysis.

City Planning

The Kenosha City Planning Commission is largely responsible for the city's supremacy. This commission holds regular meetings, and has adopted a city plan which it has already begun to carry out to considerable extent. In order that the plan might be such that Kenosha will not outgrow it in the near future, an expert city planner, Harland Bartholomew, of St. Louis, Missouri, was employed.

A zoning plan has been adopted to restrict the growth of the city and to prevent industrial and residential development from growing without regard to the future of the city as a whole. The zoning regulations may have to be revised as the population increases, but they accomplish much in creating better residential districts and confining industry and commerce to business centers.

The plan provides for adequate street space, traffic regulations, the prevention of many accidents, and the systematic recording of accidents. More than one-half of the main streets are now sixty-six feet wide or wider. Housing conditions are generally good. The Building and Loan Association has afforded opportunity for the building of better homes and incidentally, the ownership of more homes by those who live in them. The civic center is a great project to provide a real center around which the principal public buildings are to be grouped and business is to be carried on. Although there may be other commercial centers to serve the out-lying districts more conveniently, this larger one will be the nucleus of the entire city.

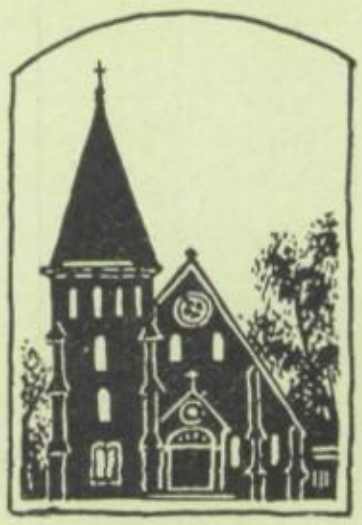
In parks Kenosha was found to be lacking, but the park conditions are steadily improving. Those which we have are designed to serve the public quite efficiently.

Tourists are invited to enjoy the tourist park on Washington Island near the lake. This park is serviced with police protection, lighting facilities, and benches. Signboard service and highway directions are also supplied.

The judges found that Kenosha has none too many trees to beautify the city, but said that Kenosha is to be congratulated upon having a trained forester at the head of the park department. There is encouragement of good tree planting in new subdivisions. Home grounds are adequately provided with lawns, shrubs, trees, and flowers.

Libraries

Gilbert M. Simmons Library is one of the most beautiful library structures in the state of Wisconsin. It is situated in the center of a large park and is one block from the business district. The well kept spacious grounds with its trees, shrubs and flowers also add to the attractiveness of the building. It is the educational center and the pride of the entire community. The annual income of one mill of the assessed valuation of property has so far been adequate to carry on the work of the library.



The library had the honor of receiving first place in the Wisconsin Better Cities Contest, winning 10 points more than the required one thousand. The score gave credit for all library service rendered in the city. A few of the outstanding library activities which brought a favorable decision are given here.

The extensive branch system distributes books over the entire city, bringing books within reach of everyone. There are four separate branch buildings. One is a large community branch in the western part of the city, and three are small school and community branches on the grounds of the junior high schools. Another school library has been established in the fourth junior high school. All of these five branch libraries are in charge of trained and experienced librarians, giving the best service possible to the students and the people of the surrounding communities.

Class room libraries are also sent to all parochial and public schools except when the schools are in the immediate vicinity of one of the library centers. Books are sent to the Senior High School library to supplement its collection of books, as well as to both vocational schools.

Instruction in the use of a library is given each year by the librarian to every 7th grade pupil in the city. Story Hours and Reading Clubs are some of the activities fostered during the year. The library also works with the evening schools bringing the foreigners who are studying English in closer contact with the resources of the library that are theirs for the asking. The service to the schools has brought the libraries and schools closely together, thus working as one large educational unit.

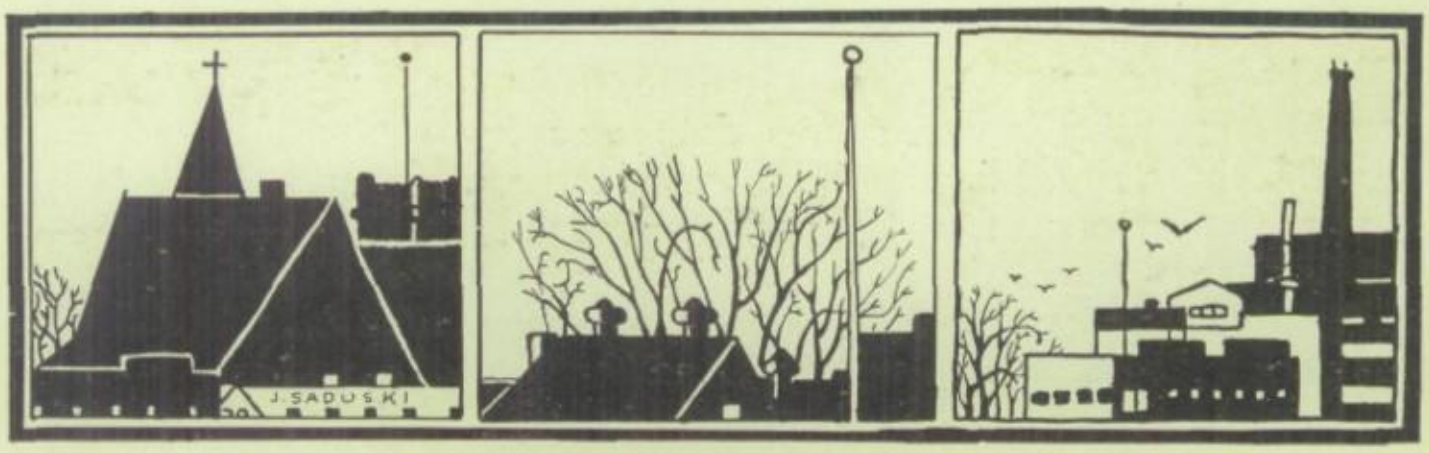
The newspapers and library book lists have been most effective in advertising the library, as have also window displays, group displays of books, etc., in the branches. University Extension courses are conducted in the library, and various clubs and debate teams hold meetings there, making it a real community center.

The library circulated 370,817 books last year to the people of the city and there are 59,843 books on the shelves for their use.

Industries

It is recognized that economic conditions have a profound effect on the life of an individual and of a community. To maintain a decent standard of living, there must be an opportunity for work that is safe and healthful, and which leaves the worker time for recreation. The work must be regular, and there must be a chance for the worker to earn a fair wage.

Of 344 men picked at random in Kenosha factories, it was found that 314 worked regularly, and thirty worked intermittently. A minimum budget for families of five was set at $1,686.11 annually. Of these same 344 men, 264 were earning more than $1,686.11 per year, and 80 were earning less. From this result, it is assumed that Kenosha is furnishing adequate means for the purchase of the standard American living.



In the five largest factories in Kenosha, health and safety conditions were above reproach. The conditions were fully according to law and often exceeded the minimum requirements. All of the plants were found to have nurses, and a few had completely equipped hospitals.

The factories also sponsor athletic contests of all kinds between the different departments of each plant. These factories each with its athletic field, band, clubs, and newspaper, provide a splendid recreational opportunity for their employees.

Kenosha has developed the Employees' Benefit Association with group insurance and the Community Chest.

In regard to the number of working hours of 10,471 men, it was found that only 1,255 were working sixty hours a week. Of 1,315 women, it was found that nearly all of them worked under fifty hours a week. All of the factories of Kenosha are shut down on Saturday afternoons throughout the entire year.

Kenosha furnishes splendid facilities for the shipping of manufactured goods. Several of the factories have railroad spur-tracks running directly to their shipping yards. Two of the factories are located on the Kenosha Harbor, which affords splendid shipping facilities for them. The harbor has been improved yearly, and now it is large enough for all lake steamers.

The principal manufactures of Kenosha are: beds and metal furniture, brass bed machinery, tables, automobiles, search lights, fire trucks, auto trucks, wire rope, springs, brass and copper sheeting, tubing and wire, brass novelties, machinery, tools, hosiery, underwear, sweater novelties, and bakery products.

Recreation

The recreation facilities of the City of Kenosha amply provide a wholesome medium through which those wishing to take part may obtain enjoyment in their leisure hours.

Recreation may be divided into five sections: commercial, private, institutional, public, and miscellaneous. They are all developed to a high degree and it may be said that Kenosha has one of the finest recreation systems of any city of its size in the country.

There are activities carried on in all lines of sports, entertainment, and social functions throughout the entire year. Outdoor activities, indoor sports, musicals, high class entertainments, all find a place in the city of Kenosha.

Commercial recreation,—usually provided for the people at a nominal sum—includes Kenosha's baseball team supported by industries in the city, dance halls, pool halls, theaters, and bowling alleys.

Private recreation is manifest among the older people of the city. Many private card parties and social gatherings are given in the private homes of the citizens of Kenosha. Such parties or gatherings are a fine method of binding friendships.

Institutional recreation is back in all of the factories and many clubs of this city. The men play on the department teams, and there is much spirited competition. There are baseball leagues and bowling leagues in most of the Kenosha institutions and in several of the leading clubs and lodges.

Public recreation is boosted by the city recreation department and park board. At the present time there are twenty-one parks in the city of Kenosha. The greater number of these parks have playgrounds facilities and competent supervisors for both boys and girls. The public has the use of public school gymnasiums, rooms for Parent Teachers Association meetings, and other places for activities of public interest.

Under Miscellaneous Recreation come the finer arts. In some centers drama is being developed and plays given. An appreciation for music is being shown by various clubs.

Health and Physical Development

Real health work began in Kenosha in the year 1912, when an ordinance creating a Department of Health was passed by the City Council. Outside of Milwaukee, Kenosha was the second city in Wisconsin to employ a full time Health Commissioner.

The first Health Commissioner was Dr. John J. McShane, who is at present chief of the Bureau of Epidemiology with the Illinois Board of Health. In 1916 Dr. McShane accepted a position in Akron, Ohio, and was succeeded by Dr. H. L. Wright, who in turn was succeeded by the present Director of Health, Dr. G. Windesheim. Dr. Windesheim has held this office since Aug. 1, 1918.

In the Health Department today the staff consists of the Director of Health, a whole time school physician, a dairy and meat inspector, one statistician and chief clerk, one assistant clerk, a director of the laboratory, one laboratory assistant, five school nurses, one infant welfare nurse, and one tuberculosis nurse.

The death rate is about 7.3 for every one thousand inhabitants or, for the year of 1924, 356.

The official funds available for strictly health purposes are about $1.75 per capita.

The drinking water is furnished by a Municipal Water Plant, and is primarily obtained from Lake Michigan. To insure thorough purification, this water is treated by precipitation, filtration, and chlorination. The intake pipe entrance is 4,700 feet from the shore line, almost one mile from the beach. The average daily consumption of water is six million gallons.

Kenosha has the distinction of being the second Wisconsin city, Milwaukee having been the first, to establish an open air school. This school is open for eleven months every year, and has a net enrollment of 50 pupils.

Social Welfare

Social work is one of the greatest interests of the community. It includes work with the diseased, the feeble, dependents, children, delinquents, and criminals. The program is one of prevention and formation rather than of correction and reformation. Causes of undesirable conditions are searched out and remedied as far as possible.

In family social work, Kenosha has exceptionally well-trained case workers. In addition, there are many organizations working with the Kenosha Service League such as the Salvation Army, the American Legion, the Women's Guild of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, and the Evangelical Lutheran Friedens Church.

The care of the mentally defective and mentally diseased is adequately carried on by a well-equipped clinic, an alienist, a psychologist, and social workers on full time. There are seven public health nurses doing general work, and two specialized nurses in infant welfare work, besides nurses employed at factories and by insurance companies. These are well-trained nurses, but they are not competent to supervise mental cases. However, a good start has been made in this direction, upon which Kenosha is to be congratulated. The Thrift Shop has turned in $1800 annually to this cause.

Religion

Religion is of vital interest to every boy, girl, man, and woman in the community. Therefore it is of great importance in any community. The organized expression of religion is the church, of which various phases have been worked out. There is the church plant, including the building and service system, church finances, including the entire church budget, leadership, and the Sunday schools. The attempt was made to measure the opportunities afforded by communities for participation in religion. No effort was made to measure the community's spirituality nor the degree of devotion.

Kenosha has an abundance of church buildings. Most of them, however, show more attention to aesthetic features than to service. There is at least one church within a mile radius of any point in the city, but they are thickest in the southwest quarter. The church grounds are generally well-provided with trees and grass.

The churches that reported showed an average budget expenditure of $8,762.00, or $1.54 per capita.

There is a comparatively ample supply of leaders in religious training who have training to the degree of seminary or college work. An excellent condition exists in regard to the attendance of young people in the churches. The church is by far the most powerful organization which can secure the best possible group of opportunities for citizens. It strengthens the foundations of the community, which are industry that pays a living wage, education that trains one for life, and healthful conditions.

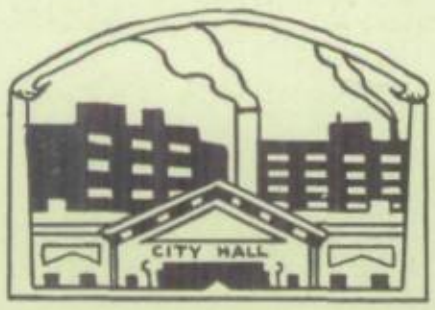
Education

Education, it will doubtless be agreed, is the community's most important concern. Civic success is reflected in a city's educational provisions; and education is not a process confined to a few specified years of life, but extends in its scope from the cradle to the grave.

In 1924 the net enrollment in the schools of Kenosha was 10,969 out of 12,264 according to the school census, or a percentage of 89.

In the elementary schools the per pupil instruction cost for one year is $69.25; in high school, $100.56.

From figures obtained from 1920 census statistics it was found that 95.1% of the city population of Kenosha could read and write.



Kenosha is doing excellent work in behalf of retarded and mentally defective children. For physically handicapped children two hours of instruction a week are given to each of 25 shut-in children, a total of 50 hours a week, or the full time of 1 2-3 teachers.

Kenosha is fortunate in having two University Extension classes devoted to social problems, and many students are taking correspondence courses of one kind or another.

The example which the Kenosha Parent Teachers Association set for the state brings commendations from everywhere. These organizations are founded in every school to promote cooperation between the home and school. Although Kenosha's educational work has been excellent and satisfactory in many phases, it is by no means perfect, and in education we scored third. The authorities of the schools are better equipped than anyone else to determine upon a plan of action that will bring us to the very top, and since our defects and short-comings have been pointed out to us these men are doing all within their power and means to make Kenosha a by-word and example to the educational world of today and tomorrow.

Town and Rural Relations

Kenosha, because it is essentially a manufacturing town, has a very weak relationship with outlying rural districts. The score for this section of the contest was figured primarily on the amount of farmer trade in the city. Because of the number of fair-sized rural villages, most all of which have well-equipped stores in their limits, the farmer trade is not great in Kenosha.

We can hope, however, for an increasing feeling of cooperation between farm and city to the benefit of both.

Conclusion

In view of the fact that it is the duty of every municipality to promote the health, welfare, and happiness of its people, and to provide a means of accomplishing future growth and expansion efficiently in an effort to protect and improve property values, the various departments of the city have already done much toward this goal in accordance with the city plan and with much thought of future development. The city's growth in the last two decades has warranted the wide margin allowed for future advancement and made manifest the real need of a comprehensive plan to guide it. With pride in Kenosha's victory in the Better Cities Contest, and with great confidence in the bright prospects for our city's future, we have endeavored to present to the public the most important facts from the reports of the contest judges.

SCHOOL LIFE

Do You Remember?

DO YOU remember, 'way back in the dim and distant past, the old high school? Do you remember the battle-scarred desks, the dingy walls and ceilings, the worn-out, creaking stairs? It all seems queer on looking back. It was kind of friendly and comfortable, though; wasn't it?

The unsteady desks had such a sophisticated, free-and-easy look that it made them seem actually comfortable. And how convenient they were! When a fellow was badly in need of scrap paper, all he had to do was to reach a hand inside the desk. And when he wanted to get rid of scrap paper, those desks were handy too; weren't they?

Due mention must also be given the corridors. There were only three of them, but they furnished ample ventilation for the chemistry room. Of course those corridors were slightly congested at noon when everyone was in a hurry to get home. And how determined Miss Doherty was, stationed at the foot of the south stairs, frantically grabbing at the speed demons. Somehow it seemed to bring a feeling of elation to be able successfully to evade Miss Doherty.

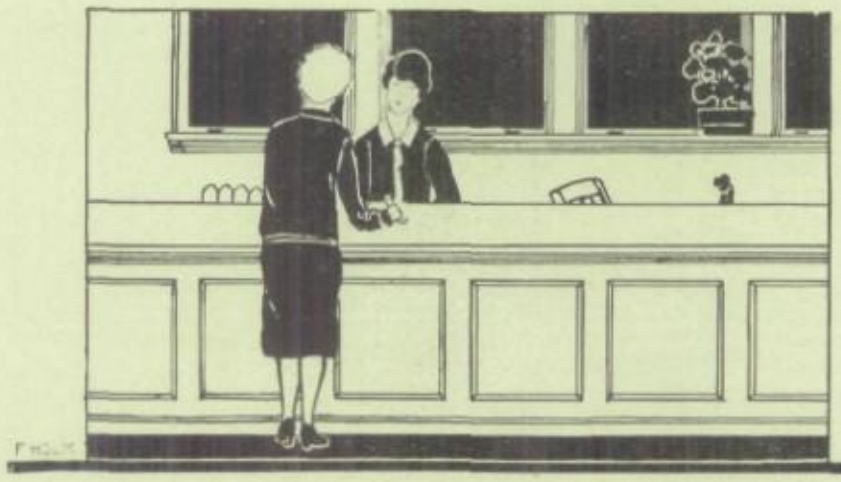
But who will ever forget the study rooms in early summer? How plainly it all comes back! The windows were thrown wide open,—we had indifferent thermostats—and a drowsy feeling seemed to have drifted in and permeated the air. And every student sat with a pen or a book in one hand, his chin in the other, and a hazy, far-away look in his eyes.

Alas! We have no more open windows; we have vainglorious thermostats. Gone are the dingy congested corridors and the noon waiting-lines. Our stairs are unmarked by the progress of education. Our chemistry room is scientifically ventilated. Our desks are as prim and forbidding as spinsters of the '90's.

What a change! But then, I guess we've changed a little too; haven't we?

The Student Loan Fund

Do you remember the Student Loan Fund organized by the Girl-Reserve and the Hi-Y? The purpose of the fund was to help pupils who were financially handicapped. The needed sums of money were loaned without interest. Special requirements were made of those who wished to borrow money. The pupil was to sign a note of promise stating that he would repay the loan without interest at the end of three years.



Loan Fund

Do you remember how this plan was put into actual practice? From January 1, 1927 to April 1, 1927, $24.97 was loaned to five people. Of this amount $16.10 was already returned by the middle of April.

And what cooperation the Girl-Reserve and Hi-Y received! Donations toward the fund were made by Mr. Martin, Mr. Alford, Mr. Lance, and Mr. Rhode. The Elks, The Moose, and the Danish Brotherhood made contributions, as did also the School Board, the Musicians' Union, and the Lyceum League. The Macwhyte Company, The Holm Manufacturing Company, Blommer Ice Cream Company, and The Motion Picture Operators Union also did their share to make the Student Loan Fund a success.

Selling Tickets

Surely you remember the Lyceum League at High School, don't you? I'll never forget it as long as I live, especially the semester that Gladys Bonson was president, and I was treasurer. That was the semester that we sponsored the picture at the Orpheum. It was Richard Dix in The Quarterback. Every girl was anxious to do something for the League, but when it came time to sell at least forty tickets apiece, they all weakened. We were told that unless we sold fifteen hundred tickets, we would receive no money. The day before came, and a Lyceum meeting was held. No more than seven hundred and fifty tickets had been sold, just half the necessary amount! Gladys just about cried. We had Mr. Davies give a fiery and convincing speech in assembly. Mrs. Tremper gave a speech to encourage the Lyceum girls, and poor Gladys was simply weak. As for me, I had so much money to keep and count that nothing else mattered. Each girl was appointed a place either in school or at a bank or department store to sell tickets. Finally the girls really became enthusiastic over the idea; but what good was that? The money had to be turned in the next evening at six o'clock.

At five o'clock the following afternoon every girl had to turn in all her money to me at the Elk's Club. We were all hoping that our quota had been sold, but we were sure it hadn't. The girls came one by one to turn in their money; one had sold forty, the next fifty, the next forty-five. We were dumbfounded; we might really make it! When the last money and tickets had been turned in, fifteen hundred tickets had been sold. Gladys was so glad that she and Miss Farley fairly danced about the room. Our success was heard from one end of the city to the other. When the people at the Orpheum heard about it, the manager said that he hadn't expected us to sell even eight or nine hundred tickets, but had simply set fifteen hundred as a goal. He was as surprised as we were when he found out that we had sold the required amount.

Do you remember how we celebrated our success? We gave the annual dance, and it proved a wonderful social event. When we had purchased the dishes for the High School with our ticket money, we gave a banquet at which we all enjoyed ourselves immensely.

Selling tickets surely is a responsibility, but after all, it proves to be a lot of fun and enables one to have some unusual experiences.

Memories of the Library

Do you remember the library? I didn't think you could ever forget it. We spent so many hours there, you and I, getting on everybody's nerves and accomplishing nothing save the ruin of our reputation as a studious pair.

I always liked the library. It seemed so restful and quiet after the commotion and bustle in the class rooms. And it seemed so idealistic and imaginative a place, a room where one might sit and dream of the future and its castles in the air. I often thought of life when school days were past, and many a dream have I had in that little room where the works of them who lived and died and dreamed their dreams before my time, surrounded me from every side. And the silence! It seemed a part of that little room, an essential part, for the silence wove the net of fascination that seemed to draw me to that library. Of course, the silence could not endure forever. Often it was broken, and then the voice of the guardian of the little room called for quiet.

Outside was heard the clamor and clang of the commercial world. In the school the long corridors were deserted. During the classes the building seemed dead and its occupants vanished, but in the library the silent, mental barrier overcoming activity gave proof that humanity still haunted the silent halls and stairways. Everyone, save you and I, was hard at work in that little old room. It seemed to hold the very spirit of Kenosha High!

I wonder how that little room is today. If I were to step into it tomorrow, what would I see? New faces perhaps; but the same old books would still be on their shelves as they were years ago. And I wonder if the silence still reigns supreme in that intellectual domain. I would like to go to that library and sit and dream once more, but my dreams, mellowed by years of experience, would be of the by-gone days when I was a carefree student in Kenosha High.

High School Basketball Games

Do you remember the good old basketball games at Kenosha High School? We always looked forward to the five home games of the Big Six Conference. On the night of the game we went and enjoyed ourselves with our friends by talking, yelling, and watching the teams practice.

We felt rather strange when the visiting team was on the floor; but when our familiar home team came out and the cheer leaders were out, everyone was yelling as loud as he could. We all sat together so that every shout rang like a shot, and the conspicuous one was the one who didn't shout rather than the one who did.

Do you remember when Kenosha High School won the state track championship? Our team won with 36½ points, only one-half point more than the nearest competitor, Washington High of Milwaukee.

Do you remember how we celebrated the victory with a two-period assembly during which Mr. McCaw explained the intricacies of the track? Three cheers for the track team!

A Wallflower's Dream

I was drifting in dreams; my eye-lids were shut by spring's first warm, gentle breeze, which makes every school boy snap his fingers and say, "Let's go swimmin'." I was leaning against a giant oak and listening to the songs of the birds, who were welcoming spring. All about me the tall, willow-like grass was swishing in the breeze. Frequently there came to my ears the chatter-chatter of gossiping squirrels.

As I drifted along in this pleasant dream, I was brought suddenly to earth by some maiden's heel placed unconcernedly on my little toe. Oh, oh, and she swept by in the arms of a handsome young man without so much as a glance over her shoulder. Ho hum and a bottle of rum! I was leaning against a hard brick wall instead of a sturdy oak. The orchestra sounded like anything but the soft warbling of birds. The tall willow grass resolved itself into girls and self-centered sheiks. And there I stood—a wallflower, at the first dance of my last semester of high school. Get thee behind me, Satan—but I do wish I could dance.

The Spanish Program

In front of the curtain, which flutters in expectancy of the coming treat, a noisy band of eleven hundred students await the raising of that curtain with various attitudes of delight, scorn, sense, and nonsense.

Finally the stage is bared to view. Great is the applause and many the laughs and jeers when a promising young actor storms up and down muttering "Carramba" through his slightly askew mustachio. Oh, the rage of him, the sweetness of his affianced bride, the grace of the gypsy revellers, the reality of the gypsy wedding ceremony! Gradually the most indifferent of the young scorners in the audience becomes interested. He glances slyly about to see if anyone has noted his changed attitude. As all seem engrossed, he gives his full attention to the stage and the youthful actors and actresses. He laughs at their antics; his face becomes dreamy as he watches the colorful marriage rites; and his foot taps the time of the merry, mad music.

The lights go on, and he is again the scorner. "Oh, bunk!" he grumbles; but somehow, he lacks sufficient sincerity to impress himself and his listeners as usual.

That Locker Alcove

Do you remember, Laurie, that locker alcove near Miss Northway's room? Every other night we stayed there and did our difficult Physics problems together. One day, while we were arguing over a problem, Mrs. Tremper came by and asked what was the trouble. We told her and asked her if she could help us. I still remember the look on her face. She didn't like Physics either and told us she had forgotten all she knew.

We had to keep quiet in the alcove, or Miss Williams would make us leave. She did this a few times when we had forgotten ourselves.

It was a surprise to our families if we ever got home at the regular time after school. Remember those good old days, Laurie?

District Commercial Contest

Kenosha was represented in the District Commercial Contest held in West Allis, April 23, by Rose Pavlic and John Slavik in the Senior Typing Contest, and Lucy Szarafinski and Mary Ellen Earl in Shorthand. Rose Pavlic won second place in typing, writing fifty-two words per minute.

Lucy Szarafinski won first place in Shorthand, writing at the rate of eighty words per minute for five minutes, securing a score of 100% on her transcript. Rose and Lucy represented our school in the State Contest held in Whitewater, May 14. The rate of dictation in Shorthand in the State Contest is one hundred words per minute for five minutes.

The Pet I Liked Best

Now, once upon a time, I had an ambition to become the keeper of a menagerie; so, towards that end, I collected all the animals my parents would allow me to keep. At one time I had a garter snake, a toad, fourteen grasshoppers, a white mouse, and a cat in the house, most of them in glass jars covered with paper. At the same time, in our shed, I was feeding two dogs; and another cat in the back yard, when no one was around, was receiving various scraps from me at odd times.

But the pet I liked best was the white mouse. It was all white except for the tip of its tail, which was jet black for about an inch. It had a darling little white and pink nose, and pinkish eyes that blinked at everything. Its teeth were pearls except for their shape, but for all that, they were very capable. I have had many valuable things lose their value as a result of those teeth. Once I found the scraps of a dollar bill in the nest he was building in an old shoe of mine. Similarly, other things had disappeared, and those that were small were charged to the account of my white mouse. Up to the time of his death he had run up a bill of about ten dollars, which is a fairly large amount for one little white mouse.

My pet had a sunny disposition, and was always ready to play. He would run up my sleeve, or up my pants leg, or hide in my pocket whether I wanted to play hide-and-seek or not. He was always ready to track ink over the letters I was writing, or to bother me when I was trying to study. I was very studious in those days, and, as you will observe, I have never changed in that respect.

Actually, though you may not believe it, my mouse was the cleverest animal I had ever seen. He could add to as high as fifteen by thumping with his tail on the tablecloth, and could multiply by two up to as high as twenty. I taught him to stand on his hind legs, on his front legs, and on his head, and almost trained him so that he could stand on the tip of his tail. He could play dead, jump through a hoop, and do any of the tricks that a clever dog can do. He even learned how to frighten the cat by imitating the bark of a dog. But although he was clever, he never learned how to manage the canary. The canary did not even show a sign of fear, and it was through this fearlessness that I lost my menagerie. I will tell you how it came about.

One day my mouse jumped up onto the canary's cage and tried to frighten it by mewing like a cat. The cat was attracted, and stood just under the cage with her mouth wide open in amazement. The canary, to show its feeling, pecked at the mouse. The mouse jumped back hurriedly to escape this attack and fell into the mouth of the cat, sticking in the throat of that amazed creature. With a gurgle, the cat jumped out of the window, knocking down the jars containing my snake and grasshoppers, and choked to death on the grass. One bottle landed on my pet toad and crushed it to death; the other broke and let my grasshoppers loose. The snake died of fright. The canary, overcome with remorse, fell into a fit of hysterics, from which it never recovered.

The next day I buried the whole lot of them under the rose bush in the back yard. I was heart-broken. The work of my lifetime had disappeared at one peck from the bill of a canary. My menagerie was buried under the rose bush. My white mouse, the pride and joy of my existence, had vanished into the throat of the cat. I could bear no more. I took my horse-hair lariat, tied it to the apple tree, tied the other end to my neck, jumped down from the highest branch, and hung there till I felt better.

Home Work

I sit by my window, dry and warm,
Watching the ever increasing storm
Drifting the snow, and the single form
Of a man goes staggering by.

The corner street light, shedding its glow,
Makes firefly sparks of the eddying snow
In the trees above, on the ground below
The snow piles high.

Silhouetted against the sky,
Firm and true as the wind howls by,
The black, cold trees stand and defy
The storm.

Onward and onward swirls the snow,
Wind-driven ahead, now fast, now slow,
While I sit by the warm wood fire and so
Keep warm.

A Ballad

Once on a day there dwelt a maid,
  Oh weep, oh weep, my lady fair;
Her tresses twisted in a braid,
  A golden sunbeam in her hair.

Alone, alone, she walked at night,
  Oh weep, oh weep, my lady fair;
And put her nails into her flesh.
  Where is she now? I do not dare!

Let she forth a piercing shriek.
  Oh weep, oh weep, my lady fair.
And threw herself into a creek;
  The sunbeam faded from her hair.

Her cause of grief no one can tell—
  Oh weep, oh weep, my lady fair;
A ghost still walks the place she fell.
  Where is she now? I do not dare!

The Wind

"Who-o-o? Who-o-o?" cries the wind,
The melancholy wind.
"We-ee! We-ee!" he answers himself again.
Yet he is not content, for again he cries,
Fiercer, louder,
"Who-o-o? Who-o-o?"
And louder and fiercer he answers himself,
"We-e-e! We-ee!"
Then his melancholy question
Is sad and low again—
"Who-o-o?" he asks unhappily, "Who?"

Even the trees bow down with sorrow
The skies are mourning.

Who art thou seeking, Oh Wind,
That thou dost cry, "Who? Who?"
And why dost thou answer "We-ee, We-ee?"
Oh unhappy wind, mournest thou
Because thy voice can make
Only two sounds:
Because thou canst ask only "Who?"
And answer "We?"

Another Victory for Kenosha High

A distinction that comes to Kenosha High School for the first time was announced from Madison yesterday when second and third prizes in a Spanish essay contest in which high school students throughout the state participated, were awarded to two Kenosha High School students.

They are Mary Modrijan, who won second prize, and Josephine Polanski, third prize.

Both students are sophomores in the second semester classes of Miss Helene McMurtry, Spanish instructor at the high school.

The contest was open to all students who have studied Spanish for two or more semesters. The accomplishment of the Kenosha students was considered all the more remarkable when it was learned that the two essays with which they won the state prizes were written while they were yet in their first semester in the study of Spanish.

Stop!

It seems that high school students who drive to school are none too regardful of traffic signals. Perhaps it is merely a dislike of brusk and imperious commands. However, be that as it may, we suggest the following to the Police Department: Could not results be obtained by appealing to the dignity of the students? Change the customary signal wording from "Stop," "Wait," "Go" to "Cease," "Tarry," "Proceed." (They might stop the first time out of curiosity.)

Time

When a fellow's on a jamboree,
When he's just as happy as can be;
When exciting things are being done,
When a game is being lost or won,
Time flies.

When we're writing a belated theme,
And we're busy concocting its plot or scheme;
When we're writing out a lengthy test
And things go wrong with satiric zest,
Time flies.

But when you're in school and feeling blue,
And the day is warm and drowsy, too;
When questions are hard and answers few,
And the teacher's eye is fixed on you,
Time 'lies.'

The Editor of the 1927 Spy annual wishes to take this opportunity to express his appreciation to all those who participated in its success. To Mr. Smith and the printers at the Kenosha News Publishing Company we are indebted for the printing and layout of our pages. The appearance of the book was made possible only through the time and patience they contributed. To Dan Smith we owe the layout and design of our advertising section. To the advertisers we owe thanks for their hearty cooperation with us. To Mr. O. B. Wakefield of the Jahn & Ollier Engraving Company we are indebted for the wonderful service we received on our engraving. To Donald Heide we owe most of our views and snapshots. The art classes, too, merit our appreciation for the art work in our book. To the work and cooperation of the members of the Spy staff is due, in large measure, the success of the annual. It is not to be omitted that we appreciate and are gratified with the cooperation we received from the students in our subscription campaign, and we hope that future staffs may meet with similar loyalty.

WISH YOU WERE HERE

LOST, STRAYED, OR STOLEN

From Day to Day

Night falls—
The tinted sunset glow
Gently shades,
As the sun drops low,
From delicate crimson to deeper gold,
Then to a purple, dark and cold,
Leaving their ragged outlines bold
Against the darkened sky,—

Dark waves—
With crested caps of white
Disturbing the quiet of the night,
Run foaming races all about;
The moon comes up and the stars come out,
Putting the goblins and monsters to rout,
And light the sky—

Stars set—
The sun climbs up once more,—
Up and up,
From the ocean floor,
Till it beams in full glory in the sky;
Once more night's unsolved mysteries lie
Undiscovered. They live and die
Unknown to men—

Wind blows
Ruffling and the settled calm,
And rising,
Still chanting its whispered psalm,
Storms into gales; and then dies out
To a muffled breeze, which stops to shout
Where the sun goes down and the stars shine out,
It's sweet, Amen!

Offering the Community the Best Banking Institution Possible

KENOSHA has progressed rapidly in the last ten years. This progress and faith in our city has been exemplified by our new high school, courthouse and other new buildings.

The banks, which are the credit institutions of this community, through efficient management and conservative banking principles have done their share in financing and fostering this prosperity.

That we may continue to offer the best banking facilities possible to our community, we are now erecting an eight-story bank building that will be equal to the best in the state.

The main banking floor, 44x120 feet, will afford ample space to care for our customers' commercial and savings needs. Our cash and safety deposit vaults are of the same type construction as used by the largest banks in the country and claimed by experts as the best vault construction known.

Throughout each department the United States National Bank has carefully planned and maintained the idea to offer our community the best banking institution possible.

Leads the Field in Permanent Waving

PERMANENT Waving is the much talked about topic of the day. What is a Permanent and does it really injure the hair? This is heard wherever we go. A Permanent wave is a curl that is put in the hair to resemble natural curly hair; it lasts until the hair grows out. It is not a kinky curl, but a loose natural wave that requires no setting; we take care of your wave for the price of the shampoo. If your hair is straight and you struggle with temporary old-fashioned curling methods, turn your thoughts to a permanent wave by the famous Leon Oil process. The Leon Oil method will curl all textures of hair, gray or white hair, without turning it yellow, and we give you a written guarantee. There need be no doubt, no anxious moments or anxiety in regard to the wave, whether yours will take the curl and keep it. Come in without obligation to see Leone Pfannenstiel who has studied hair and specialized in Permanent Waving. She will tell you whether or not your hair will take the curl. Leone Pfannenstiel came to Kenosha from Milwaukee the first of February, opening the Permanent Wave Studio. She has specialized in this work and knows what kind of curl is best for your hair. So why not go to somebody who really knows. We do Marcel Waving and all other Beauty Culture work.

Service & Personal Interest

MR. EUGENE POTENTE, president of this concern, has had a life-long interest in the decorating industry, his immediate family having always been engaged in the painting industry. Mr. Potente came to Kenosha in 1911. He began decorating two years before the world war. He served for 20 months overseas and then returned to re-establish his business. There has been a rapid increase in the growth of his business since 1920 due to the service and personal interest Mr. Potente has shown in the work of his patrons. The New Central High School was decorated by this concern. Also the County Court House with the association of the Andrew Decorating Company of Chicago. Mr. Potente has decorated many of the homes of prominent people in Allendale, the new sub-division which has shown such a rapid growth in the past year. The Potente Decorating Company is the largest organization of its kind in Kenosha, employs between 30 to 50 men the year round who are first class men and ready to serve the people at all times. The office, in connection with a Linen Shoppe handling imported linens and laces, is located at 5919 Sixth Ave. A. Phone 4078.

From a Village of Homes

Kohler products—enameled plumbing ware and private electric plants—are made in a village where houses are homes and yards are gardens; where civic pride and pride of good work go hand in hand.

THE things we grow up with! What's more important? Books, flowers, music, pictures, and—don't smile!—even bathrooms. . . Let's not commercialize the thought too far, except to say that fine bathrooms and Kohler Enameled Plumbing Ware belong together: that Kohler fixtures have been preferred these many years for their beauty and their immaculate enamel: that they cost no more than any other acceptable ware: and that you can always tell them by the name "Kohler" unobtrusively fused into the enamel. . . ABOUT 1857 the name "PIRSCH" was first associated with the manufacturing industry in Kenosha. "PIRSCH" wagons and carriages, which were built during the next half-century, were known for their quality of material, workmanship and finish. There was hardly a farm in Kenosha county that did not have a "PIRSCH" wagon in use. About 1895 the name "PIRSCH" first became associated with the fire apparatus industry. The "PIRSCH" Patent Trussed Fire Ladder, invented a little later, is now one of the three accepted "standard" fire department ladders, these ladders being in service in over one thousand fire departments all over the world. About 1910 the motor fire engine commenced to come to the front, and the city of Chicago placed its first order for three of them which were "PIRSCH" equipped. Since then "PIRSCH" equipped motor fire trucks have been shipped to all parts of this country and other countries such as, Japan, Russia, Chile, Peru, Panama, Cuba, etc. All of the fire engines in service in the Kenosha Fire Department have "PIRSCH" equipment. This firm now builds fire apparatus exclusively, including a complete line of motor fire engines, building the chassis as well as the equipment which is being marketed under the name "PIRSCH."

Pure Oxygen Means More Efficient Work

WE ARE the only commercial manufacturers of Oxygen Gas in Wisconsin who use the Electrolytic Method of manufacturing exclusively. Commercial Oxygen runs from 95% to 99.8% pure. Relatively small differences in the percentage of impurities effect astonishing changes in the efficiency of the gas. The difference is in the method of manufacturing. The Bureau of Standards, a Federal Agency, in a letter to a Kenosha Oxygen user said, "We are inclined to favor Electrolytic Oxygen on account of its usual greater purity." Our Oxygen is better than 99.5% pure in the cylinder. We maintain free delivery service in Kenosha, Racine, Zion, Waukegan, and North Chicago.

Anaconda Guaranteed Brass Pipe for Long-Life Plumbing

IN THE year 1886 the present American Brass Company was organized under the name—Chicago Brass Company. When it was purchased in 1900 by the Coe Brass Company of Torrington, Connecticut, the name was changed to The American Brass Company. At the time of this purchase the yearly output was 3,000,000 pounds, the number of employees was 250, and the payroll was $6,750.00 per month. In 1912 the American Brass Company became an operating company, and the name was changed to Kenosha Branch of The American Brass Company. In the early part of 1922 the company was purchased by the Anaconda Copper Mining Company. This branch at the present time utilizes 26 acres, more than half of which is under roof, its yearly output is 150,000,000 pounds, the number of employees is 2,000, and the payroll is approximately $300,000. Anaconda Guaranteed Brass pipe for long-life plumbing, a large quantity of which was used in the plumbing work in the new Kenosha High School, is manufactured by the American Brass Company. Its other manufactured products include brass, bronze, nickel, silver, and copper in the form of sheets, rods, tubes, wire, and special shapes.

Builders of the New Kenosha High School

THE new Kenosha Central High School, classed as one of the most modern schools in the country, was built by Peterson-Colwell, Inc., of Minneapolis. That the building was completed seventy-four days ahead of schedule is a proof of the efficiency of the company. The building itself both in appearance and substantiality is a tribute to the ability of Peterson-Colwell, Inc.

Quality of Work and Service

THE Gentile Brothers started in the cleaning and dyeing business April 20, 1921, under the name and style of the Wisconsin Unique Cleaners & Dyers. They employed five men and used only one delivery truck. Today they have twenty-five employes on the payroll and operate five delivery trucks. The quality of work and service, they believe, is responsible for this success. They have added a rug cleaning department, the largest and best equipped on the north shore, to take care of the finest rugs made, including Orientals. They endeavor to give the public of Kenosha the highest quality of work and service at all times. When better quality of cleaning is available the Wisconsin Unique Cleaners will give it.

Service to the People for Forty-Two Years

LOOKING backward to the year 1881, when Kenosha claimed about 6,000 population, the name of C. H. Hurd became connected with the Drug business of Kenosha. Starting in what is now known as the Pitts' Building, the business has remained on Main street until the present time, thus making Hurd's Drug store the oldest business on Main street. Hurd's Drug store has been under the same management for 42 years during a period of amazing growth and change in Kenosha. Its history shows that it stands for service to the people, and that it gives its customers the goods they want at lowest prices, with courteous treatment. We hope to serve you as heretofore for many years to come.

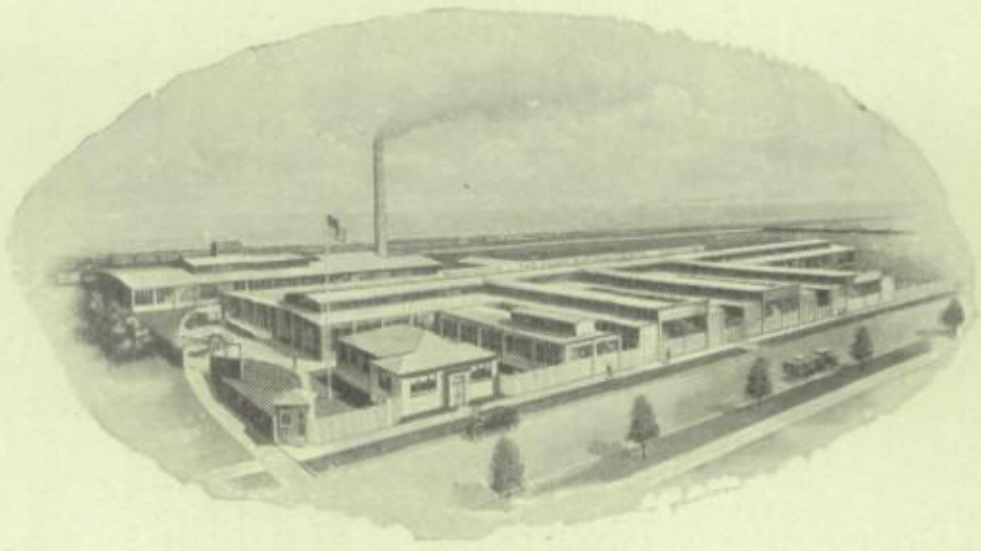
Brass Goods of Various Kinds



THE FROST MANUFACTURING COMPANY, whose plant is shown above, was incorporated in 1902 by Kenosha men. This Company manufactures Brass Goods of various kinds, but principally Plumbers' Brass Goods. At the time it began business, its office and factory were located at the corner of Elizabeth and Pleasant Streets. In 1912 its business having grown to such an extent that greater facilities were necessary, the old plant was sold to The American Brass Company, the site of the present plant on Fremont avenue purchased, and modern factory buildings, as well as an office building, were erected. Additions have been built from time to time.

You Spend 20 Years in Bed

Make Sure That Every Minute Yields the Rest That Restores and Invigorates

IF YOU live until sixty and sleep eight hours a day you spend twenty years of your life in bed. You cannot afford to waste a precious minute of those years without the soundest sleep you can obtain. Feminine charm depends on it. So does the masculine force that wins in business.

Now you can fathom new depths of sleep; you can enjoy a new measure of luxurious relaxation. At prices irresistibly low the world's largest makers of sleep equipment offer you revolutionary advances in mattresses, springs and beds.

Entirely different from ordinary mattresses, the Beautyrest is a super-mattress that shapes to your body curves and lures you to relax. In a similar and equally scientific way, The Ace Bed-spring compels your brain and muscles to let go of their day-time tasks, and rest. Simmons beds add the final sleep assurance, for they are as solid and silent as they are beautiful in their new designs and color and finishes.

Start tonight to get the added health and energy you too can enjoy from the third of your life which you spend in bed.

Lest You Forget

WE WANT to remind you that this company furnished the lumber that went into the New High School building, and you may well believe that the builders knew what they wanted, and got it from us.

We do not claim that we have a corner on all of the good lumber and building materials in the state, but we assure you that we get our share. It costs us more in dollars and cents to handle the best, but we feel that the satisfaction of knowing that our customers get what they want more than offsets the extra profits we might make in handling inferior goods.

In our business there are as in all other lines certain items that are the accepted standard for quality such as "Creo-Dipt Shingles," "Sheetrock," the fireproof wallboard, "Upson Board," the best wood-pulp board made in America, "Mulehide" Roofing and asphalt shingles, also "Ruberoid" Roofing and shingles, "Bruce" Oak Flooring, "Anderson all White Pine door and window frames," United States Gypsum Company's "Red Top" plaster and "Grand Prize" lime, "Celotex" and "Flaxlinum" insulations and many other items of like caliber. Therefore, when you order "Creo-Dipt" stained shingles from us you get them. We do not have to explain that we do not handle them but have some that are just as good. And while we do not deny that perhaps there are one or two other brands as good, we know there are many that are inferior, and if you see as you may, a house with stained shingles, on which the stain is washed out or faded out you may rest assured that is not a "Creo-Dipt" job but a "just as good job."

All that we have said of "Creo-Dipt Shingles" applies to the other items we carry and we stand back of them all and the maker is behind us and as the makers of Mulehide Roofing say "The Bitterness of inferior quality remains long after the sweetness of low price is forgotten." Therefore, buy the best.

Best Equipped in Kenosha

PABST Brothers' Garage, located at the corner of Nineteenth Ave. and Fifty-Seventh street, is the oldest, largest and best equipped garage in Kenosha. In 1913 a small building located on Park street, in back of the present building, was used as their first garage. In 1916, owing to the growing necessity of more floor space, a new building was erected on Ridge street at Park. Due to the personal supervision of all work by the Pabst brothers, Fred and William, the increase in demand for a larger storage and repair space made it necessary for them again to enlarge their building in 1920. This addition gives them a total of 16,000 square feet of floor space.

KENOSHA is the home of The Allen-A Company, one of the largest, and most famous hosiery and underwear manufacturers of the world. Above is a view of the new office and the ladies' full-fashioned silk hosiery mill, completed during the year 1924. This mill is the largest and most beautiful hosiery mill in this country specializing exclusively in the production of ladies' full-fashioned silk hosiery. Another ladies' full-fashioned silk hosiery mill, situated right next to the present one, is now in the process of construction, and will be ready for operation the latter part of the summer. This new mill will double the capacity for full-fashioned silk hosiery. Besides these mills there are three other mills operated by The Allen-A Company in the manufacture of hosiery for men, women and children; and underwear for men and boys. One of these is located in Kenosha while the others are at Sheboygan, Wisconsin; and Bennington, Vermont. It requires around 3,000 people to handle the manufacturing and selling of Allen-A hosiery and underwear, over 1,400 of whom are employed in the Kenosha mills. Allen-A hosiery and underwear may be obtained in good stores throughout all parts of this country and in fifteen foreign countries.

HIGHEST GRADE SERVICE MAKES SATISFIED CUSTOMERS

IN JULY, 1897, thirty years ago, W. J. Bermingham purchased a half interest in the lumber company known as Parmentier & Kipp. The firm was then incorporated under the name of The Kipp-Montgomery Lumber Company, later being known as The Montgomery Lumber Company. The original yard was located on the docks where part of The Simmons Company now stands. During the year 1905 the firm name was changed to The Bermingham Lumber Company and a new site of five acres was purchased and the yard located on a tract of land on the corner of Prairie Ave. and Charles St., now known as 60th St. and 26th Ave. A complete and up to date plant was built enabling the company to render the highest grade service to its many satisfied customers. The present officers of the company are W. J. Bermingham, President; B. W. Bermingham, Vice-President; C. A. Scheaffer, Secretary-Treasurer.

THE Badger Fuel & Supply Company was organized in the early spring of 1917, when it took over the local retail coke branch of the Wisconsin Gas and Electric Company and started its business life in the small scale-house at the corner of Grand avenue and Sheridan road. During that summer it acquired the property at 464 Fremont avenue, where its plant now stands, procured a switch track of its own, and as business merited improvement of the property, at the beginning of 1923 it erected the first modern coal pocket plant in the northwest. Mr. A. H. Kluender is President of this firm; A. L. Drury, Vice-President; E. H. Williams, Secretary; and R. H. Jones, Treasurer and General Manager, who with Secretary E. H. Williams, is in actual charge of the business.

THE Turner Sons Florist Store is entirely owned and operated by former High School students—L. Turner, Jr., K. M. Turner, Mrs. L. Turner, Jr., formerly Sigrid E. Larsen, and Edna Junker. They own and operate one of the most beautiful flower stores in southern Wisconsin. Sigrid Larsen Turner and Edna Junker were valedictorians of their classes. L. Turner Sons was established in 1886 by L. Turner, Sr., who came to this country from England in 1880, where he learned his trade on the estate of Sir Joseph Crossland, Huddersfield, England. Mr. Turner was head gardener on the estate of Leander McCormick at Lake Forest. Mr. Turner came to Kenosha in 1885 to take charge of the gardens and greenhouse of the late Z. G. Simmons. He worked here a short time and then started in business for himself. He is still active in the new greenhouse and flower store. Turner's are pioneers in the telegraphing of flowers to distant cities.

A Satisfied Customer is Our Best Ad

THE Vanity Shoppe was first started by Hilda Kaufmann in September, 1922. It was located at 305 Main Street, above Cohn's. There were three booths and a waiting room. After serving the public there for two years we were forced to look for larger quarters. In July, 1925, we moved to our present location, 608 Fifty-Ninth Street—a main floor location. We now employ eight people—serving the public in all branches of beauty culture—such as shampooing, marcelling, manicuring, face massage, hot oil treatments, shingling, hair dyeing and dye removing, permanent waving, etc. We wish to thank our loyal patronizers who have helped make our shop a success and we hope to continue to serve you all as well in the future as in the past.

Service for Seventeen Years

SINCE September, 1910, teachers, students, and others have enjoyed the privilege of shopping at the book, stationery, office supply, and sporting goods store, located at 635 Fifty-Eighth Street. Convenient location, courteous clerks, honest values, and up-to-the-minute merchandise have spelled success for this business from the very beginning. Floyd C. Mansfield, proprietor since May 1, 1925, is well qualified for the line, having had many years experience in filling office requirements.

Flavored Beverages of All Kinds

THE flavored beverages of the Sparkling Spring Water Company have been popular throughout this county for many years and with the installation of the most modern, automatic machinery in the bottling plant on the Washington Road it has been possible for them to reach the production they now enjoy. "Sparco" beverages, in bottles, is the special concession of the Sparkling Spring bottling works. The beverages are manufactured from absolutely pure spring water and high grade flavors, made up in any flavor, all of which delight the palate all year round. A special washing and sterilizing machine cleans each individual bottle when it is returned to the plant, thereby killing all germs. The beverages do not come in contact with the human hands from the time the empty bottle is entered into the washing machine until after it is filled and capped, ready for delivery, thus insuring the public the highest type of sanitation. The Sparkling Spring Water Company operates three trucks in the city, and prompt and courteous service is rendered to all. They are also distributors of Tonic, Bronco and Special Beer and wholesale candies of all kinds. When in need of anything in their line please phone 1117 and your requirements will be given prompt attention. Mr. Chubrilo cordially invites the public to visit the plant at any time.

Largest Display of Furniture

ALWAYS showing the largest display of House Furniture in Southern Wisconsin. The entire building is given over for displaying House Furnishings. The first floor is given over for displaying Living Room Furniture. The second floor to Bed Room Furniture, Rugs and Linoleum. Third floor to Dining Room Furniture, Crockery and Lamps. On the fourth floor we have the twelve Model Rooms completely furnished, every room is of different size, and differently decorated. This has been a great help to our Customers as they could see just how the Furniture and Furnishings would appear in their own Homes. Our policy is and always has been to give value received for every purchase and never to misrepresent; purchases can always be made here with absolute confidence.

"Satisfaction to the Customer"

WITH this principle ever in mind, the business of which Harold A. Brosk is proprietor has grown so rapidly they have again found it necessary to move to larger quarters. Starting as a printing shop the business has grown into larger fields including a complete line of office equipment, school supplies and greeting cards. A tribute to their success is shown by the many offices using equipment furnished by Brosk's, also by the students making this store their headquarters for their needs.
